Germany and Italy Recognize Franco As Spain's Chief

Rome and Reich Government Deal Formally With Dictator-Designate and His Organization

Germany Wants Spain's Manganese

Rome, Nov. 18.—Italy and Germany, the world's chief Fascist powers, formally recognized the insurgent regime of Dictator-designate Francisco Franco in Spain today.

The joint action came on the Italian "day of ignominy and infamy," the first anniversary of the day on which most of Europe's powers—but not Germany—resorted to League of Nations sanctions in a futile effort to stop Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

It followed by less than a month an Italo-German agreement, under which the two countries, both accused by the Spanish and Russian governments of aiding the Spanish insurgents with men and arms, agreed to work together on major problems of Europe.

SENDING NEW ENVOY
An official communique issued in Rome stated:

"In consequence of the fact that General Franco has taken possession of the greater part of Spain and the development of a situation which shows with increasing clarity that in the remaining part of Spain one cannot speak of the exercise of a responsible governing power, the Fascist government has decided to recognize the government of General Franco and send to that government a charge d'affaires to begin diplomatic relations."

LULL COMES IN MADRID BATTLE

Attackers' Bombardment Dies Down After Night of Terror in City

Madrid, Nov. 18.—Weary thousands streamed out of Madrid's packed subway stations today, after a night of terror, to view the blackened skeletons of buildings and great shell and bomb craters in the heart of the capital.

A nightmare of bombardment and great fires which found white-faced Madrilenos packed four deep underground, took many lives and caused incalculable property damage gave way to bright sunshine and a lull in the battle for the Spanish capital.

MORNING AIR RAID

One early morning air raid was directed at the Venas workers' section and the vicinity of the Toledo bridge, but big guns of the Fascist invaders limited themselves to occasional shots along the southern and western front.

Building-to-building fighting in University City in the northwestern limits of Madrid subsided into

Gap in Talks to End U.S. Port Strike

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—Another meeting between shipowners and striking maritime union heads was urged in San Francisco today by Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward P. McGrady, following yesterday's session which ended with strikers charges that an "un-American and arbitrary attitude" by employers was preventing waterfront peace.

In New York the focal point of the seamen's strike was the efforts of United States Line officials to sign a full crew for the liner Washington, to sail for Europe.

Many Mourn Singer's Death

Music Lovers Everywhere Voice Regret at Mme. Schumann-Heink's Passing

Associated Press
Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 18.—Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink belonged to the immortality of song today.

A world that loved a great artist and a great woman paid the seventy-five-year-old diva tribute in death. But at the quiet, hillside home above Hollywood where she passed away yesterday evening, her children arranged a simple, private funeral to meet one of her last requests.

CHILDREN AT BEDSIDE

Weakened by a severe chronic anemia despite a series of blood transfusions, she succumbed at 7:21 p.m. Three sons and a daughter stood weeping in her room. They were Ferdinand Schumann, motion picture actor; Henry Schumann-Heink, film technician; George W. Schumann, his mother's business manager, and Mrs. Marie Fox of San Diego.

Her sons served on both sides in the Great War. August, with the German forces, was killed in action. Another son, Hans, who was with the United States army, died after the war.

The ailment which caused Mme. Schumann-Heink's death became grave six months ago, halting her on the threshold of a film career which Producer Jesse Lasky predicted would make her an outstanding star.

MANY TRIBUTES

Spontaneous outbursts of sorrow and acclaim of her genius were evoked today from noted admirers.

Gale Maroons Fifty Hunters

Canadian Press
Midland, Ont., Nov. 18.—More than fifty deer hunters are marooned today somewhere along the north shore of Georgian Bay by a howling gale, below zero weather and mountainous waves on the bay, which is an arm of Lake Huron.

Figure In Thrilling Sea Drama Off West Coast

The barge Dunstyre, formerly a famous sailing ship, is shown in the above picture in Victoria harbor alongside the steamer Anyox. The Dunstyre broke adrift from the Anyox off the west coast of Vancouver Island yesterday afternoon and this morning drove ashore. Her crew of three was saved.

Dies In Blast At Cobble Hill

Oscar James Blown to Pieces in Explosion in Garage

Oscar James, aged about fifty, was blown to pieces at 11 o'clock this morning in an explosion of stumping powder in his garage at Cherry Point, near Cobble Hill.

Mr. James had gone into the garage, where the powder was stored, to start his car. It is believed that the vibration of the car, or possibly a backfire, detonated the explosive.

The garage and car were completely demolished, and Provincial Police from Duncan who attended had difficulty in locating parts of the dismembered body, scattered by the blast.

Mr. James is survived by his widow, two daughters, Margaret and Agnes, and one son, Robert. J. M. Thomas, principal of Cobble Hill School, is a brother-in-law.

KING ON TOUR IN SOUTH WALES

Sovereign Visits Distressed Areas and Sees Measures Taken for Improvement

Cardiff, Wales, Nov. 18.—The King today began a two-day tour of the valleys of desolation in South Wales.

He passed through dreary, drab villages, where every third man is out of work. He saw coal pits silent for eight years. He saw young men who scarcely knew what it is to do a full day's work, dragging out an existence on the dole.

LAND SETTLEMENT
In the tour, too, His Majesty saw the brighter side of the picture. He saw what the army of unemployed has done and is still doing to remedy its lot—land settlement under way, social halls built, children's playgrounds and football fields laid out, craft work accomplished.

Barge Goes Ashore But Crew is Safe After Night Adrift

Three Men, Including Two Victorians, Had Harrowing Night on Dunstyre in West Coast Storm

After nearly nineteen hours aboard the barge Dunstyre, drifting helplessly in the foggy darkness and seas of the open Pacific and momentarily expecting to be dashed through the surf to the rocks, three Victorians were safe today at the Kains Island Lighthouse, off the entrance to Quatsino Sound, west coast of Vancouver Island.

The Dunstyre—formerly a well-known sailing ship—ran ashore this morning on Kains Island. How the men got ashore is not yet known. She had drifted nearly seventy-five miles from the spot where she broke away from the tugboat Anyox, in a sudden gale, yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock.

Aboard the Dunstyre during the night were Capt. W. Billington of Vancouver, Roy Larkin, twenty-seven, of 812 Caledonia Avenue, Victoria, and Allan Heister, nineteen, of 2514 Prior Street, Victoria.

The Anyox was towing the Dunstyre down the west coast of the island yesterday when a gale sprang up, shattering the towline that connected the two vessels.

GREAT SEAS
Seas were running high at the time and it was impossible to get another line aboard. Darkness with fog was fast closing in. By 6 o'clock Anyox lost sight of the Dunstyre, which continued the search throughout the night.

The Anyox and the Dunstyre were about fourteen miles southwest of Tachau Point when the towline parted. The Anyox followed the Dunstyre dangerously close to the rocky shoreline, but as darkness approached she had to head away from the great breakers.

The B.S. Salvage King, which was on an Esquimalt slipway for overhaul, left the harbor at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon for the scene of the mishap and joined the Anyox shortly after noon today.

Together they proceeded to Kains Island when advised the Dunstyre had gone ashore there. Salvage experts will determine whether the former

War Veteran Admonished for Surprise Move During Wales Visit

Boverton, Wales, Nov. 18.—King Edward's alert bodyguard today seized and hustled away a middle-aged former soldier who placed a hand on the monarch's arm in the course of his trip to the Welsh mining areas.

The old soldier apparently wanted to talk to the King about his wartime experiences in France.

However, the royal bodyguard, keyed to extreme watchfulness since the Constitution Hill parade of last July, when a man threw a loaded pistol at the feet of His Majesty's horse, rushed the soldier away.

Must Have Definite Scheme Of Refunding First; Mayor Says City Faces Bankruptcy

House To Set Brevity Record

Voting of supply for the year 1937-38 on a budget calling for expenditures of $26,350,594 was completed by the British Columbia Legislature yesterday; all but a few resolutions dealt with, and except for a couple of dozen public and private bills on the order paper the House could see prorogation in sight, probably on Friday.

In the event the House rises on Friday, it will have completed the shortest session since the province entered Confederation, just twenty-five days since the opening. Previous records for short sessions were established in 1880 and 1921, both thirty-three days.

Supplementary estimates for the fiscal year 1936-37 have yet to be voted and a bill was introduced by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, last night for a further $150,000 for road expenditures, making a grand total for the current budget of $25,573,047, made up of $24,192,594 in the original estimates and $1,380,453 in supplementaries.

Island Has Half Of Civil Service

The B.C. government civil service now includes 1,313 permanent employees and 233 temporary, and of these 666 permanent and 104 temporary are employed on Vancouver Island, according to questions answered by Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, in the Legislature.

In Vancouver the government has 288 permanent and 65 temporary employees. New Westminster has 42 and 7.

The figures given do not include police nor sundry employees. Among the sundry employees are 67 on Vancouver Island, 75 in Vancouver and 88 in New Westminster.

Ore Sampling Plants Planned

The establishment of two sampling plants at strategic spots in the mining districts of British Columbia to assist local miners operating in a small way by purchasing their ore, will be carried out by the provincial government next year under a bill introduced in the B.C. Legislature this afternoon by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance.

Proposed locations for the plants are Prince Rupert, to serve the Portland Canal, Stewart and northern mining districts, and Nelson, to serve the Shuswap and southern interior.

An appropriation of up to $100,000 for erection of the plants is provided in the bill.

The two plants are intended to serve as assembly points for ore in the two mining districts.

At the present time small operators with only a few tons of ore find it difficult to ship to smelters, and make any money, due to high freight rates on small lots and the uncertain quality of the ore.

Under the new scheme they will be able to ship comparatively few miles to the government plant, where assays will be taken and the ore purchased outright. The government will then accumulate ore in this way until it has enough to ship commercially to the smelters.

French Morocco Riots Quelled

Associated Press
Casablanca, French Morocco, Nov. 18.—Nationalist riots in three Moroccan cities were quelled today after many persons, including several policemen, had been injured. More than 130 demonstrators in Casablanca, Rabat and Fez were arrested.

CHINA UNITING FOR DEFENCE
Classes were contributing liberally and that employed classes were turning their wages over to the government to bolster the Suiyuan forces.

Numerous vernacular newspapers today urged the national government to take up an aggressive defence of Suiyuan, including the use of Nanking's modern air force.

Leeming, Brown Re-instated

Mayor Leeming and Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee of the City Council, will be restored to their full status on the council by a bill before the B.C. Legislature today. The private bills committee of the Legislature this morning decided to report favorably on a clause in the city's private bill which will exempt the mayor and Alderman Brown from disqualification in connection with their actions on the City Council motion for the refunding trip expenses. Full argument on the point, between John Day who instituted action, and Alderman Brown was heard by the committee last week.

CAN NOT LOG WATERSHED

House to Reject Victoria Plea for Timber Cutting at Sooke Lake

The B.C. Legislature will not give Victoria the right to allow logging on the Sooke Lake watershed, it was learned today as the private bills committee prepared its report to the House on the city's bill.

The committee's decision against the proposal followed a last-minute attempt by Mayor Leeming to put the scheme through.

A final attempt to get rights to log the Sooke Lake watershed was made by the City Council today before the private bills committee of the B.C. Legislature.

Mayor Leeming spoke on behalf of the plan, saying he could not understand why the city should be blocked in the "realization of a capital asset that is deteriorating."

"If we don't get it, the government is making a mistake and certainly doing injury to Victoria," he said.

Dr. P. N. Barr, professor of forestry in California, described the methods of selective logging, and said if more than 30 per cent of the timber were taken out the brush might be removed with safety and economically to the logging operator. Care should be exercised that nothing but mature timber was taken.

Rev. J. O. Miller Dies In Toronto

Canadian Press
Toronto, Nov. 18.—Rev. John Ormsby Miller, principal episcopate and for thirty-two years principal of Ridley College, St. Catharines, Ont., died at his home here yesterday, the victim of a sudden heart attack.

He was born in Liverpool, England, twenty-five years ago and graduated from the University of Toronto.

The Mayor said the city needed relief to the extent of some $500,000. The refunding plan would save $700,000 a year for three years, which, to-

Leeming Reports on London Trip to Private Bills Committee; Says City's Position Recognized by Financial Men and is Convinced Adjustment Coming

Claims Bill Essential Maintain Solvency

The British Columbia Government, it was learned this afternoon, has turned down the Victoria proposal to give the cabinet a "blank cheque" to pass on any refunding or debt adjustment agreement the city may secure. The private bills committee of the Legislature had tentatively agreed to the proposal, subject to government acceptance, but the government has declined, holding to the principle that the city must present a definite refunding scheme before the government can take action.

Mayor David Leeming appeared before the private bills committee this morning and made a vigorous plea for acceptance of his proposals and declared if Victoria did not get a debt adjustment next year it would have to apply to the courts for a receivership.

Mayor Leeming assured the committee that bondholders' representatives in London and Toronto had fully recognized the city's claim for debt readjustment and he expressed high hopes of it being achieved.

Whether the government would accept the Mayor's proposal was not decided, but Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Municipal Affairs, said he saw no objection to the private bills committee recommending it.

The minister said he would have liked to see some word from the Dominion Mortgage Company that there was possibility of an adjustment.

The Mayor replied: "We will try to get that."

Mr. Gray said he had already discussed the Victoria proposal with the Premier, and added: "I know Victoria must refund."

MAKES LENGTHY REPORT
The Mayor made a lengthy report to the committee on the negotiations, he City Comptroller D. A. Macdonald and Fiscal Agent Charles Henley carried on in London, at the same time outlining the city's financial position.

"I've been pointing out to this committee for years," he said, "that Victoria must remain solvent and that something drastic is needed to accomplish this."

"We have advocated the removal of social service costs and other charges by the government as a means of doing this, but latterly we find that even these releases will not cover our needs. This simply means that we must have an adjustment in our debt charges."

"This year we have roughly $1,300,000 to meet in debt charges. We have not put up sinking fund payments for three years, and for six years we have been refunding serial debentures of one-quarter of a million dollars."

"We have been refunding these debentures incidentally by buying part of them with sinking funds and selling the rest to the Bank of Montreal."

"The bank has advised us that we are at the end of our credit as far as these capital borrowings are concerned. Our sinking fund won't stand any more draining."

"Gentlemen, if Victoria doesn't get refunding next year the city will go bankrupt."

NEED RELIEF
The Mayor said the city needed relief to the extent of some $500,000. The refunding plan would save $700,000 a year for three years, which, to-

Lull Comes In Madrid Battle

OVER 200 KILLED

More than 200 non-combatants were killed and at least 500 wounded in the savage insurgent air and artillery attacks which rocked the capital late yesterday and blasted huge craters in the busy Gran Via.

The Libertad printing establishment and the historic palace of the Duke of Alba were completely destroyed. The Defence Council announced, however, the art treasures of the palace had been placed in safety spots.

During the bombardment last night, terror-stricken crowds jammed Madrid's subways in a mad rush to escape.

The exodus to the eastern area began after Fascist bombers had rained explosives and insurgent gunners had sent a barrage of shells crashing into the business and residential districts. Fed Madrilenos slept during the night as the thunder of a terrific bombardment shook the city.

Fires blazed in the central district. The flood of refugees crowded to capacity the platform of the Gran Via subway station, the deepest of all Madrid's underground stations.

Lines of men and women, four deep, formed before the train doors. Families quarried among themselves for space. Roughly-clad laborers jostled well-dressed young Spanish girls.

The government announced this forenoon the defending lines had

CENTRAL AREA SHELLED

The worst artillery and air attack on Madrid since the start of the civil war four months ago began with shelling of the central business district at 4:15 p.m. yesterday.

The first artillery barrage lasted for an hour and a half. Shells fell in the Gran Via, the capital's smartest business thoroughfare, struck business establishments, including the telephone building and set fire to many buildings and homes.

Later in the evening, insurgent planes loosed a dozen heavy bombs over the centre of the city.

The force of the explosions shook the area, shattered water mains and destroyed store fronts. The Puerta del Sol, Central Square, was flooded.

Fascist artillery took up the deadly attack again around midnight. Two shells landed near the British embassy.

Fear-stricken residents rushed to evacuate the district.

"Not even in ruins will Madrid belong to the Fascists," screamed syndicalist newspapers in heavy type.

The beautiful Liria-Palace, home of the Dukes of Berwick and Alba, was gutted by fire started by incendiary bombs. Its priceless art collections were being destroyed and its famous wine cellars wrecked.

Fred Letherin, a groom in the palace, took his family to the British embassy for safety.

CORRESPONDENTS ENDANGERED

Lives of newspaper correspondents in the telephone building were endangered as shells during the first artillery attack fell around the structure.

One shell crashed into Salud Street, fifty yards away. Several more ripped into the roofs of buildings just behind in Hortaleza and Puencarral Streets. The newspapermen ran to the lower floors.

Another exploded in Valverde Street at the building's entrance, fragments flying through the windows and wounding one of the guards at the door.

The correspondents went further down—into the sub-basements. They remained there for half an hour, then climbed to the fifth floor. Scarcely had they regained their posts when a shell struck the building at the sixth floor level.

It burst through the walls, wrecked furniture and broke a water pipe. Company officials ordered the front of the building evacuated just as Fascist bombing planes appeared overhead dropping incendiary bombs north of the Gran Via.

REICH-JAPAN PACT SCORED

Canadian Press from Havas

London, Nov. 18.—The London Times in an editorial today vigorously criticized Japan for allegedly concluding an agreement with Germany for anti-Communist front.

"Japan can pick her friends and her enemies how, when and where she chooses," the Times said, "but on this occasion it has been not only ill-timed but ill-made. Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown, but to share a pillow with a couple of dictators is to court insomnia."

CHINA UNITING FOR DEFENCE

JAPANESE DISGUISED

Associated Press
Kweilau, Suiyuan Province, China, Nov. 18.—Allegations of Japanese designs on Suiyuan province took a more serious turn today as Chinese sources reported Japanese soldiers were arriving at Pallingmiao disguised as Mongols.

Informing quarters expressed the belief a strong, general attack was being organized from both the north and east with Kweilau, the provincial capital, as the objective.

(Some Chinese sources have declared the Japanese are seeking to extend their influence westward from the Japanese-sponsored state of Manchukuo.)

ORDERED TO LEAVE

Stuart Gunnell, a United States missionary stationed at Pallingmiao, was declared to have been ordered by Japanese officials to leave the area within three days. The order was given, it was understood, to prevent foreigners from witnessing military movements in the vicinity.

Suiyuan officials asserted today their forces shot down a Japanese fighting plane in the eastern sector Tuesday after the ship had supported an alleged infantry attack into Suiyuan from Chahar.

Germany And Italy Recognize Franco As Spain's Chief

(Simultaneously, in Berlin, Germany granted official recognition to the Franco provisional government, with headquarters at Burgos.)

NOT INFORMED

Told of that move, the secretary to the Spanish embassy here said he had received no official notification of the recognition. He refused comment.

It also was announced Italy had refused to join a French protest to Berlin against Germany's abrogation of the river internationalization clauses of the Treaty of Versailles.

(The German government, through its official news agency, today issued a communique virtually identical to the one given out in Rome, except that the words "Fascist Government" were substituted for "Fascist Government.")

The Spanish war was one of the points on which the two powers agreed to take united action during last month's visit to Berlin of the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The Berlin communique said Germany would "recognize the Franco government" and end diplomatic relations therewith.

Remains with committee

Berlin, Nov. 18.—Official circles intimated tonight that Italy-German recognition of the Spanish insurgents would have no effect on the international neutrality agreement.

Germany does not intend to leave the neutrality committee, these sources said.

It was presumed, however, that Germany, in recognizing the insurgents, had "sided" with the Franco regime.

Germany does not intend to leave the neutrality committee, these sources said.

Importation of manganese, badly needed in the Reich, virtually has ceased during the Spanish civil war.

SPECTATORS SHOUT

Several in the crowd shouted angrily. Plainclothesmen seized Thompson and hustled him out of sight.

The King, unperturbed, continued his tour of inspection of the poverty-stricken areas.

Thompson explained: "I only wanted to remind His Majesty that when he first landed in France during the war I was a member of his first guard of honor. I was hoping to have a chat with him about it. I am sure he would be interested."

QUICKLY RELEASED

The officers then released Thompson, who rejoined the crowd cheering the King.

King Edward, accompanied by Rt. Hon. Ernest Brown, Minister of Labor, and Sir Kingsley Wood, Minister of Health, came to Wales by train from London early today.

George Andrew McMahon, who admitted he "altered" a pistol beneath the feet of King Edward's horse during a military parade on London's Constitution Hill last July 16, is under a year's prison sentence.

McMahon asserted he did not intend to hurt the King, but wanted to call his attention to a fantastic "foreign plot" against his life.

strikers in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mr. McGrady, who engineered the unsuccessful peace conference here yesterday, said he was hopeful because representatives of the two sides had finally met, even though without progress.

He said he would reframe proposals on the vital hiring bill issue and seek another conference today.

Peace negotiations have been blocked over union demands for control of the halls and employer insistence there be at least neutral management.

"The shipowners wouldn't budge an inch," declared Harry Lundberg, secretary of the Sailors' Union, after yesterday's fruitless conference.

The official telegraphed Labor Secretary Perkins in Washington, "the unions are willing to settle this strike, but the shipowners refuse to yield one inch in their un-American and arbitrary attitude."

Shipowners, reiterating previous stands, agreed to submit all issues to arbitration as asked by a group of mayors. The coast committee for shipowners, representing offshore operators, telegraphed the mayors that if unions accepted the proposal "we will be prepared to discuss the necessary arrangements for the return of the men to their jobs and for arbitration, which, needless to say, must be adequate to protect all interests."

SHIPS TO CARRY FOOD

Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 18.—The White House today disclosed a President Roosevelt had authorized the Alaska Railroad to make use of government and privately-owned vessels to prevent shortages of food and other necessities in the northern territory as a result of the maritime strike.

By executive order the President empowered the railroad to obtain vessels from other branches of the government or to charter ships and operate them during the emergency.

King On Tour In South Wales

nounced a new bill which will give wider powers to the commissioners for the distressed or special areas as they are officially termed.

TRAVELS BY TRAIN
His Majesty came from London to Wales by special train, arriving at the little Glamorgan station at Llantwit Major in the early hours of the morning.

Crowds gathered about breakfast time. Soon the road was lined with coaches and automobiles. Members of the British Legion, wearing their war medals and carrying banners, lined up outside the station. Accompanying the King were Rt. Hon. Ernest Brown, Minister of Labor, and the minister in attendance, Sir Kingsley Wood, minister for health.

The King traveled from Llantwit Major by motorcar. The first pause was at Boverton, a place where the first attempt was made under the Welsh land settlement society at co-operative farming by unemployed men.

Boverton has an area of 532 acres. On the farm the King talked for a time with J. Dalton, disabled ex-serviceman who twice acted as His Majesty's batman in France. Dalton gave the King the small figures of his income.

As the King was crossing the road, an ex-serviceman named Thompson pushed forward toward him. The King turned, but police pressed Thompson back. "I only wanted to tell the King I was in the guard of honor which welcomed him on his first visit to France," Thompson complained.

In dreary Rhonda 1,500 ex-servicemen lined up and welcomed the King. Some of the men had been brought over from neighboring villages by bus as they were unable to pay their own fare.

Rhonda provided a grim contrast with the earlier part of the tour. From green hills bathed in sunshine the transition was swift and almost overwhelming. Now monstrous slag heaps marked idle workings. Rows of dingy, blackened houses climbed the steepest of streets.

So delayed was the royal party by crowds that the King at Pentreback was fifteen minutes behind schedule. There he lunched.

The royal lunch was eaten in a corrugated iron shed. Between fifty and sixty unemployed men were taking their mid-day meal there. They all rose as the King entered.

The King and his party lunched in an adjoining room.

AGED WOMAN DIES
At Dinas a seventy-five-year-old woman stood on the sidewalk, waiting to see His Majesty. "The King is here," someone shouted. The woman collapsed from excitement and was taken away in an ambulance. She died half an hour later.

A nine-year-old ambulance cadet was among those on parade. The King inquired his age.

"Well," he commented with a laugh, "the little tyke will grow bigger."

Many Mourn Singer's Death

"She had always been a great inspiration to me," said Lawrence Tibbett, operatic and screen star, at San Francisco.

"She once told me she wanted to die in the harness, singing if possible. I am deeply grieved."

Just before she lost consciousness yesterday her eyes filled with tears as she read an unsigned telegram—one of hundreds which arrived at her home during the day—and murmured, "God bless him," of the sender.

The telegram read: "Just a San Francisco urchin who wants you to get well."

HALF CENTURY OF SINGING
More than half a century had the renowned artist spent in entertaining audiences. A few minutes after she died a telegram was received from an eastern agency, offering her a contract to sing lullabies on a world-wide radio broadcast on Christmas Eve.

Ernestine Schumann-Heink, acclaimed as probably the world's greatest Wagnerian contralto, achieved riches as an operatic and concert prima donna and, in the twilight of life, won a huge popular following in vaudeville, radio and moving-picture theatres as a singer of simple German "lieder."

In the heyday of her career she was reputed to earn $135,000 a year from concert work alone, while royalties on machine records of her voice brought in an additional $50,000.

GENEROUS WOMAN
But her own generosity to numerous friends and relatives and the world's turn from high prosperity to acute economic depression shrunk her fortune to the vanishing point. When she was past seventy she was glad to take engagements which paid for a week less than half what she had received earlier for single performances.

POPULARITY ENDURED
Her voice by then had become compressed to little more than half its former range and she was limited to such numbers as Brahms' "Lullaby," the traditional Christmas hymn, "Holy Night" and similar songs of short range and brief phrases. But the artistry of the singer, plus the maternal character of her personality and undimmed stage presence, overcame the effects of obvious shortcomings and she remained a drawing card.

By radio she was heard by millions in Canada as well as the United States.

BORN NEAR PRAHA
She was born June 15, 1861, near what is now Praha, capital of Czechoslovakia, and then was Prague, Austria. Her father was Major Roessler, an Austrian army officer, and her mother was an Italian.

She was a star in her own right, backed by twenty years' experience on German operatic stages when she made her first appearance in North America on November 7, 1898, singing "Ortrud" in a presentation of Wagner's "Lohengrin" at the Auditorium Theatre in Chicago. Her impresario was Maurice Grau of the firm of Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau, predecessors of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York.

AT METROPOLITAN IN 1926
One of her last stage appearances took place February 25, 1926, when she emerged from "retirement" to sing "Erda" in "Das Rheingold" with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Her most famous roles were "Fides" in "Le Prophete," "Ortrud" in "Lohengrin," "Erda" in "Das Rheingold" and "Orpheus" in Gluck's opera of that name. But she mastered 150 other parts and in her youth was a famous "Carmen."

She took out United States citizenship papers at Cincinnati in 1905.

WHY "LYSOL" IS USED IN THOUSANDS OF HOMES

"LYSOL" Disinfectant has been used to help protect the famous Dionne Quintuplets against infection—since the very morning they were born, and it is still the only germicide used to disinfect their surroundings.

This example of scientific care holds a pointed suggestion to housewives and mothers. Surely you want to give your family the same protection science gives the Dionne babies. Now, without cost, as a matter of public service, as a story of how "Lysol" is used in the modern little Dufour Nursery is offered to all mothers! ### Labor Debate On Police Board

Vancouver, Nov. 18.—A motion condemning Mayor G. G. McGee and members of the Vancouver Police Commission for their action in dis-submission of his report on city police activities, was rejected by the cil.

LIMITS ARE SET FOR MINISTERS

Only Full Cabinet Hereafter Can Bar any British Subject from Australia

Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's
Canberra, Australia, Nov. 18.—
Hon. T. Patterson, Minister of the Interior, announced yesterday in the House of Representatives that a British subject in future will be excluded from Australia only by decision of the full cabinet, and not an individual minister.

The announcement followed Mr.
Patterson's refusal to permit a woman named Mrs. Freer, the estranged wife of an Indian army officer, to land in Australia.

Mr. Patterson described her as "a heartless adventuress usurping a wife's place, an undesirable character whose presence in Australia would wreck the Australian home."

In the heated debate which followed members of all parties criticized Mr. Patterson's action. He declared the cabinet entirely approved of what he had done and said the Freer decision would not be altered.

day by Alderman W. H. Lemke, chairman of the city council's building committee.

If the Prime Minister is unable to accept the invitation, Premier T. D.
Pattullo may be asked to officiate in his place, Alderman Lemke said.

uver resident, died here yesterday. He

Farmers Favor Marketing Act

Advisory Board of Institutes Passes Resolution Praising Minister

After attending the investigation into the potato board yesterday morning, the advisory board of the British Columbia Farmers' Institutes came back to their room yesterday afternoon and unanimously passed a resolution favoring marketing control.

The resolution commending the work of Hon. E. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, was introduced by O. B. Appleton, West Kootenay representative.

E. W. Neel, Vancouver Island representative, said Mr. MacDonald had done all in his power to make the Marketing Act workable.

In speaking to the resolution, H.
Boe, Fraser Valley representative, said that in 1934 he had marketed his own potatoes and sold 2,807 sacks for $1,603.05, or 58 cents a sack. In 1935, the board had handled his potatoes and the returns from 2,185 sacks had been $1,308.20, or 62 cents a sack, an increase of 24 cents.

During the business yesterday afternoon, W. E. Haskins, Kelowna, Chamber of Agriculture, thought that the Farmers' Institutes should take a major part in this chamber which concerned with agricultural problems much in the same way as the Canadian Chamber of Commerce was concerned with commercial problems.

Many members expressed a desire of obtaining representation of the Farmers' Institutes on the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture. The matter was referred to the Minister of Agriculture when he was at the meeting, but he felt that this was hardly a matter in which the department could move. If the Farmers' Institutes wished to become affiliated they should be able to raise the amount of money necessary in their own ranks, he said.

Choral Group Gives Concert

Elgar Choir and Assisting
Artists Heard at Centennial Church

An attractive programme of choral quartette, duet and solo music was presented yesterday evening by the Elgar Choir and assisting artists at Centennial United Church under the auspices of the church young people's association.

The choir was directed by J. W.
Buckler and gave a splendid programme embracing a wide range of selections.

The complete programme follows:
Choral numbers, "Land of Hope and Glory"; "The Sea Shell" (Coleridge-Taylor); "O'er the Woodland Chase" (Wareing); "Go, Song of Mine"
(Elgar); "Dear Harp of My Country" (Moore-Northcote); "Wynken, Blyn-ken and Nod" (May); "Song of the Street Cryer" (Hart); "Brightly
Dawns Our Wedding Day" from "The Mikado" (Sullivan); and "Strike the Lyre" (Cooke).

"Nymphs of Air and Ancient Sea" (Henry Smart), and "All Through the Night" (Old Welsh air) were trio selections by Misses Jean Straight, Gwen Hollands and Elizabeth Clarke.
Miss Josephine Charlebois and Mr.
Buckler sang as duet numbers, "Jack and Jill" (Seymour Smith), and
"There's No One to Harmonize." The quartette numbers, "The Jolly Roger" (Candlish) and "Sleeping" (Edward German) were sung by W. Jones, W.
Gush, O. Thomas and C. E. Toomer.

The soloists for the evening were Miss Dorothy Parsons and Dr. T.
Harry Johns. The latter sang "The Two Grenadiers" (Schumann); "Aspiration" (Cox), and "Trade Winds" (Keel). As a duet, Dr. Johns and Miss Parsons sang the "Silvio and Nedda" duet from "Pagliacci." Miss Parsons's solo selections were: "Ah, Love, But a Day" (Mrs. Beach); "Thoughts Like Music" (Brahms), and "Cherry Ripe." Edward Parsons, who accompanied the soloists, played the organ solos, Corelli's Ninth Sonata and "Berceuse" (Grassi).

Squid Attacked Wading Hunter

Port Alberni, V.I., Nov. 18.—A fitteen-foot octopus was examined by Port Alberni residents yesterday, and Fred Schwarz, sixteen, can thank four loads of birdshot and accurate aim for an escape from almost certain death.

Hunting at the mouth of Somas
River near here Saturday, Fred shot a duck. He waded into the river to pick it up when the bird disappeared.
He saw it had been dragged under.

A moment later a giant squid propelled itself toward him. Fred fired both barrels of his shotgun at its head without effect. Hastily reloading he killed the octopus with two more shots.

With a companion's help he had dragged his quarry ashore, and carried it to Alberni.

PROTECTED BY WAGE LAWS

More Young People Going Into B.C. Industry Pearson
Claims

"What our minimum wage law does is to destroy the opportunity for young people to work at ridiculously low wages," declared Hon. George S.
Pearson, Minister of Labor, in the Legislature yesterday answering a complaint by Dr. J. J. Gillis, Liberal.
Yale, who said that wage legislation was preventing young men from getting jobs.

Mr. Pearson said that as a matter of fact more young people were going into industry all the time. He quite recognized there had been a valid complaint on this ground and said the Board of Industrial Relations was working all the time to remove the difficulties.

When estimates for the labor department were put through, E. T.
Kenney, Liberal, Skeena, raised a point in connection with old age pensions, saying the law should be changed so that an aged person with only a few years residence could get an increasing pension the longer he stayed in the country. He cited one case of a very elderly man who got only $9 a month when the standard rate was $20.

Mr. Pearson said the government was now urging a Dominion-wide conference of old age pension administrations to iron out various inequalities in the regulations, and if necessary to change the act.

Youth Problem Before House

Canadian Youth Act Not Endorsed, But Facts Recognized

The B.C. Legislature yesterday declined to endorse a proposed Canadian Youth Act drawn up at a conference of youth organizations in Ottawa in May, but substituted for it, on motion of Premier Pattullo, a resolution recognizing the problems of young people and stating that a general programme of public undertakings should be carried on and youth given opportunity for advancement and progress, both cultural and economic.

Motion for endorsement of the proposed Youth Act was made by Harold Winch, C.P.F., Vancouver East, who attended the conference and said he was asking for support on behalf of 500,000 youth of Canada. The act would be a federal measure, and suggested a variety of projects to assist young people.

Premier Pattullo said, while sympathizing with the youth problem, felt it was already under close study not only by provincial officials, but by federal authorities as well. He suggested instead of asking for legislative movement, the measure should be taken to federal House members.

"LOAN-SHARKS" IN B.C. CRITICIZED

Control of "loan-sharks" does not come within the jurisdiction of the British Columbia Board of Industrial Relations, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, informed the Legislature yesterday when Clive Plante, Independent, Peace River, complained that something should be done about them.

Using an article from The Vancouver Sun, Mr. Plante told about high rates of interest charged by the so-called "loan-sharks," and suggested the board might investigate.

Mr. Pearson said the Industrial Relations Board was confined to relations between employers and employees. Under the Dominion Usury Act the police had power to control the cases Mr. Plante talked about, he thought. Mr. Plante said he understood some cases were outside the Usury Act and declared something should be done.

Tom Uphill In Plea To Youth

The young people of Canada must face the present crisis and the future with courage, because it was they who had to find the answer to the world's problems, Tom Uphill, Labor M.P.P. for Fernie, told the New Canada
Club last night.

It was the old people who made wars and the young who fought them, the old people who made debts and the young who were expected to pay them, said Mr. Uphill.

Courage was essential, because until youth had it it would be unable to change the present system completely, and that was the only way any permanent benefit could be gained.

Mr. Uphill admitted the courage of Lloyd George, though not agreeing with his principles, and found that President Roosevelt had employed the same quality in an honest attempt to help the people of the United States. He pointed to John L. Lewis as a true fighter in the cause of the working people.

Nigel Morgan was chairman at the meeting.

Seeing for Himself

TODAY IN THE DISTRESSED areas of South Wales, King Edward VIII is seeing for himself just what are the conditions of the people in the coal mining districts. During the last few days the newspapers of Britain have been printing heart-rending statements by victims of economic distress in places such as, for example, Merthyr Tydfil, where, of 21,000 insured persons, 12,500 are workless. His Majesty will get an intimate view of a part of South Wales which, as one correspondent described it yesterday, a decade ago was a place of "flaming furnaces, clanging hammers, busy shops and thronging streets. Now it is a region of deserted workshops, rusty machinery, empty furnaces and groups of debilitated, unwanted men, in whom hope of ever working again has died."

As a constitutional monarch, of course, there are limitations to what King Edward may do for the unfortunate in his realm who, by reason of stern economic fate, are compelled to try to live in the most squalid surroundings with seldom enough to keep body and soul together, seldom sufficient to clothe them and shelter them. As Prince of Wales, he went north into the colliery villages of Northumberland and Durham, where the unemployed miners are herded into dismal rows of dwellings in hopeless poverty. The whole country was shocked by the revelations which followed that visit, a visit the significance of which found backing in liberal pictorialization of what he saw, but the authorities at Westminster obviously were too preoccupied with other things to put an end to what was described at the time "this state of bondage."

It is to be recalled, too, that one of His Majesty's first official visits outside of London on his accession to the Throne was to the Clyde to inspect the Queen Mary, an occasion which he took to remind the nation of a neglected social responsibility. Back of His Majesty's mind—and he gave voice to it—was the contrast between the luxury of this great liner and the poverty of the workers of that area in which such great vessels are built.

As Prince of Wales, and now as King, the eighth of the Edward line is persisting in exposing the drab side of life in Great Britain. His frequent visits to the distressed areas, his absolute refusal to conform to specially arranged itineraries—as was the case in Glasgow a few months ago—perhaps eventually will persuade the government at Westminster that people in comfortable circumstances can no longer have the excuse of ignorance concerning the state of poverty among their fellowmen in what, after all, is a rich land. He already has given this element something to think about.

Fort Langley—1858

SEVENTY-EIGHT YEARS AGO TOMORROW British Columbia was established as a Crown Colony with Sir James Douglas as the first Governor. The ceremony at which that notable administrator took the oath of office was conducted at Fort Langley in the Fraser Valley, and it is now brightly enshrined in the annals of the province.

It is well known, of course, that Vancouver Island had been a Crown Colony for a considerable time before that occasion, and at the time of the proceedings at Fort Langley, Douglas was also its Governor. Since then, under the union and within the Canadian Confederation, the junior colony on this coast has been transformed into a great domain with a record of extensive industrial development, boasting of three important railroad systems, three-fourths of the provincial population, numerous towns and settlements paying tribute to a community on Burrard Inlet which is the third largest city in the Dominion. Indeed, even were the imagination to run riot, it would be difficult to paint a verbal picture of Canada's third largest city fifty years hence, progress in which Vancouver Island naturally will share.

It is fitting, then, that as each anniversary of the momentous proceedings at Fort Langley in 1858 comes round should be noted by the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, which numbers in its membership many who have made notable contributions to the historical chronicles of British Columbia.

An Interesting Report

WHAT HAS REICHSFUEHRER Hitler in mind for his political future? Does he intend to continue to "rule the roost" in Germany until the inevitable reaction from complete suppression sets in? These questions now crop up because The Manchester Guardian yesterday received a report to the effect that Der Fuehrer intends to restore the monarchy and offer the Throne to Prince Louis-Ferdinand of Hohenzollern, son of former Crown Prince Wilhelm.

The Guardian's editor says the report "seems so far from what appears probable to authorities on German affairs in London that I would not give it, were it not that the source is one that can not easily be dismissed."

To say that such a development in Germany seems far from probable would appear to us at this distance to be putting it mildly. In the first place, restoration of the monarchy, especially to a Hohenzollern, would mean the removal of Hitler from the position to which he has brought himself by dint of perseverance and the adoption of tactics suggestive of anything but relinquishment of power achieved.

True, Hitler could make a bargain, perhaps, with Louis-Ferdinand that he become permanent Chancellor, but it will hardly be suggested that a Hohenzollern and a Hitler could work together for long. Surely it would be a case of history repeating itself in a short time. Another pilot would be dropped.

And, in the second place, where do the German people come in on a proposition to restore the monarchy? Hitler's boast that 100 per cent of the population of the Third Reich are solidly behind him holds good only as far as the faked elections have shown. Millions hostile to (Nazism and all its ways naturally have kept their own counsel and have allowed themselves to be herded on occasion only because to have acted otherwise would have been to invite personal disaster. This vast element, unless we are very much mistaken, has done with Hohenzollernism. They still remember the man who ran away in 1918, now in seclusion at Doorn.

The report which The Manchester Guardian has received, however, is interesting if only for the fact that it provides material for speculation on the coming events in Germany.

The Superfluities Sale

UNTIL 10 O'CLOCK THIS EVENING at Messrs. Plimley's premises on Yates Street the local Rotary Club's Superfluities Sale will be in full swing—and the sponsors of this worth-while undertaking are hopeful that by that time they will be able to post up a "sold out" sign.

The fine humanitarian work which the Rotary Club—in common, of course, with other service organizations—continually carries out in this community needs no special emphasis here. Service in its broadest sense of the term is the motto of Rotary. This Superfluities Sale is one of the manifold forms of that service.

Briefly put, the event in progress today has been made possible by the contributions of a generous public of "things" they found they no longer required, but which could be disposed of for small or large sums to those who could use them—the proceeds of the sale going to various institutions in the community that are in touch with all cases of urgent need. Every cent realized, we may all be sure, will be used to the maximum advantage.

Real Recovery

EVIDENCE THAT THE INDUSTRIAL recovery now under way on this continent is really substantial is contained in a recent report by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Noting the gains that have been made since May, 1935, the chamber's report remarks that "it is necessary to go back a decade to find another period in which business momentum had within itself equal elements of strength."

Furthermore, the improvement is balanced. The relation of capital goods production to consumer goods production is now approximately 90 to 100, and, as the report points out, "an advance which permits such improvements in balance among fields of enterprise obviously produces an increasingly strong basis for the future."

Apparently the future can be faced with a good deal of confidence. Unless something unforeseen turns up, there should be some years of better and better times ahead.

Cause of It All

HARDLY A WEEK PASSES, NOWADAYS, that a scientist does not shatter another of our illusions.

This time it is Dr. Ernest E. Hadley, Washington psychiatrist, who says that excessive talking, drinking and smoking may be traced back to interruptions of feeding during infancy.

Resentment at such interruptions, according to Dr. Hadley, creates in the baby's psychic makeup a state of "inter-personal hostility" which shows up in later life in many curious ways.

To learn that bores and bothersome toppers are that way because their mothers were interrupted when they were babies will interest those of us who thought they had been dropped on their heads.

Notes

That Mr. Richard Cheatem, who has been keeping a store at Trickham, Texas, probably has never been bothered by confidence men.

A report of naturalists reveals that wild turkeys are becoming less timid. The domestic kind, however, still have trouble keeping their heads this time of year.

Russian anthracite is to come into eastern Canada with the resumption of trade relations between Canada and Russia recently announced by Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce. Why eastern Canada has favored the removal of the embargo on Russian coal is explained by the Canadian Unionist, which says: "If the importation of Russian anthracite breaks the monopoly in the Welsh product which has enriched a predatory group of financiers, the effect in eastern Canada will be beneficial. Much though Canadians prefer to give employment to the miners of South Wales, the Welsh mine owners have persisted in their profiteering alliance with the Montreal monopolists, despite repeated warnings and in defiance of public opinion." Coal from the Donetz Basin, less friable than the Welsh and more uniform in quality, can be delivered at Canadian ports at a considerably lower price, especially as it can withstand the rough usage of transshipment to lake barges.

Across the Bay

The House looks dull to an ex-member—
But it suddenly comes to life and shows its old fire—when the Opposition really opposes and the Premier hits back hard.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MEMORY

LIKE A MEMORY out of our boisterous youth, Mr. G. G. McGeer flitted briefly through the Legislative chamber and paced the smoky corridors outside on Tuesday, but he found it too dull to hold him long. He found it far different from the House that he had known in the remote past, three years ago, and his brief appearance in the distinguished visitors' seats must have reminded everybody, with a horrid start, that in three years we have grown suddenly old.

You would never have known it on Tuesday but this same House, in Mr. McGeer's time, used to be a lively and congenial company, used to have big ideas, youthful visions of the More Abundant Life, intimations of immortality at least once a week. But Mr. McGeer found all the wild youth gone out of this assembly, the economic tensions of the depression years relaxed, monetary reform, as endorsed then now entirely forgotten, and a new period of economic orthodoxy well under way.

Mr. McGeer looked, in fact, upon the ruins of an era, upon the backsliding of all his old monetary disciples whom he labored so hard to convert, upon a House which has abandoned its attempt to reform the world and is content now to talk for hours of painless traps for fur-bearing animals and the problems of marriage and the need for appointing more King's counsels.

WINCHES

PERHAPS all this is an improvement. Perhaps the House is really getting down to the business which, under the Canadian constitution concerns it and away from federal business which doesn't. Anyway, the remaining estimates were cleared up in quick order and a heavy load of routine legislation was passed with desultory discussion. This left most of the afternoon to the Winches, father and son, who, in the absence of Mrs. Steeves, the third of their little G.C.F. triumvirate, had to carry on the functions of an opposition almost single-handed.

Mr. Winch, the younger, tried to get the House to endorse the principle of a Canadian Youth Act, designed by the Youth Conference in Ottawa last May and which would involve an elaborate nationwide scheme to put young people to work. But the Premier thought this scheme was far too costly and feared that the Dominion might properly complain if the province endorsed it.

The Premier moved a motion, in amendment to Mr. Winch's, by which the House resolved that the Dominion should undertake "a generous programme of public undertakings of various character" to give youth "opportunities for advancement and progress in every avenue of public endeavor—economic and cultural." This excellent-sounding proposal was adopted without a vote, young Mr. Winch looking disappointed and cynical, but saying nothing.

From then until dinner time the Winch family hammered away at the capitalist system, making no dent in it; but at least, to be fair about it, the Winch family is the only consistent and organized opposition in this Legislature, the only force opposed to the government which is really working at the job day and night. None of its proposals for grafting socialism gradually on the capitalist system got anywhere.

OLD HOUSE

AFTER dinner the House came to life like a giant refreshed, and for an hour was its old self, the kind of House we used to see in its youth three years ago, and the kind of Premier who used to drink deep of battle with his peers far on the ringing fields of opposition. This, in fact, was the only real debate of the session and it touched for the first time the real substance of our public affairs.

The new $5,000,000 loan bill brought on the brief flash of spirit. On this the Opposition made its only real fight this session, called the bill an election stunt, denounced the government's extravagance, viewed our debt with alarm, wanted to know why it needed new borrowing powers when it already had the right to borrow $11,000,000—if it could find a lender—and demanded where the government could get money anyway.

That is the government's secret. Mr. Hart said simply that he hoped to borrow all or part of the $5,000,000. Mr. Bruhn, Mr. Anson and Mr. Winch kept demanding information and fearing the worst. The government looked on unmoved and apparently determined to make no reply at all.

FIGHTING SPEECH

PERCEIVING that the Opposition attack was going strong, the Premier rose to make his first fighting speech in years. Face red, eyes flashing, fist clenched, he denounced an Opposition which demanded government expenditures for unemployment relief and social services and then attacked the very bill designed to make these things possible. It was a vigorous defence and full of the passion of a man who is determined to get money but who probably doesn't know yet where he will get it.

In the end the Loan bill was passed without division, for no member wants to go on record as opposing public expenditures, even though he may attack them in general, and our first real evening's entertainment ended with Mr. Pooley's highest compliment to the Premier. Said he, looking at his good old friend, Duff: "I'm glad to see that little cock robin isn't dead yet." The Premier beamed and glowered.

THE VIEWPOINT

A teacher of English was discussing with his class the subject of comparisons, complimentary and uncomplimentary.

"Now," said he, "if someone compared me with a great Greek orator, would the comparison be complimentary or not?"

"It would be an insult, sir," piped a boy.

"Don't be silly," said the master, "I should feel quite complimented."

"But," replied the boy, naively, "I wasn't thinking of you, sir."

"You deceived me," he stormed.

"They're all working," she continued.

Mr. Brown: "Goodness, no! That's the one I wear when I go to protest against my income-tax assessment!"

UNAUTHORIZED COLLECTIONS

To the Editor:—It has come to the attention of the board of directors of the Queen Alexandra Solarium that unauthorized persons have been attempting to collect money on our behalf in a house to house canvass throughout Greater Victoria.

It would be appreciated if you would give publicity to the fact that anyone so canvassing for the solarium is doing so without our authority and further, that we have not received any money from this source.

MARKETING BOARD JUSTIFIED?

To the Editor:—Our Legislature has appointed a committee to inquire into the operations of the Agricultural Products Marketing Board, and it will be interesting to see what the outcome of this will be.

Without going into the merits of the situation, I think it is fair comment to say that the principle of compulsory marketing is something that is viewed by a great number of people in all parties with a considerable amount of disquietude. However, the experiment has been made possible by Federal Legislation, and I think the attitude of a great many people, including members of the Legislature and our provincial government, is that where such schemes have been desired, there should be a fair opportunity of demonstrating the usefulness or otherwise to the industry in question. The result has been that various schemes have been put into operation and a fair opportunity has been given, and is now being given, of demonstrating and trying to sell the idea (to the producers, to the consumers, and to the public generally) that these marketing schemes are better than the old principle of supply and demand and free and unrestricted movement of the product involved.

The different boards have had, and are having, every opportunity, and are enjoying as complete a monopoly of the products they are dealing in as has ever been accorded to any other commodity in this province. Added to that, they have had the moral support of our Agricultural Department and the most enthusiastic support of our Minister of Agriculture.

Under such favorable auspices as these, what more should the partisans of compulsory marketing demand from a people, who, incidentally, still cherish the idea that they are and want to remain a democracy? It would seem that they want more, and, in this connection, I submit that the manner of the appointment of this Parliamentary Committee and the comments that appear to have been made with regard to the aims and functions of this committee by some members of the Legislature, are open to misunderstanding to such an extent as to give cause for very grave concern to all of those who believe in the maintenance of liberty of speech, of thought, or of conscience. Merits will bring its own reward, and if the various marketing boards perform a useful service to the community at large, they will continue to function in spite of adverse criticism. But if a better way is found or indicated, then just as surely they will go, and how preposterous it is to think it could be otherwise? Every cause has its advocates, and some of these develop into fanatics who are often prepared to do a great deal of wrong in order to accomplish a possible very little bit of right. While we may admit the sincerity of such men, we should not be misled by them.

Ganges, B.C.

POTATO PRICES

By L. F. Solly, Westholme, in The Com. Argus.

In the years 1928, 1929, and 1930 farmers obtained from $30 to $40 a ton for their No. 1 potatoes. These high prices were due to supply and demand, together with favorable purchasing power. The opposite conditions have prevailed the last few years, causing low prices, but this year it is a seller's market again, and he should not have the cream taken off by an unnecessary parasitical body such as the Marketing Board.

Wheat, hay and other products are higher this year and the reason is, of course, supply and demand, and not boards.

Middle Course Spain Lesson

Rev. Andrew Roddan, Vancouver, Gives Talk on Spanish Civil War

"Other countries are swinging to the right and to the left. Let us keep to the middle of the road," was the appeal made before an audience at Oak Bay United Church last night by Rev. Andrew Roddan, Vancouver, at the conclusion of an illustrated lecture on Spain.

With a series of excellent slides, Mr. Roddan gave a picture of Spain before the revolution, and then as it is now, with the dead littering the streets. In addition he presented a short history of the country.

He predicted the Moorish allies of the insurgents would revolt if better progress were not made with the rebellion, and added: "Since when has the Mohammedan crescent become the defender of the Christian church?"

There would have been no bloodshed in Spain, he said, if the church had stayed on the side of the submerged masses.

Mr. Roddan believed Britain was vitally concerned in the Spanish war, and that whatever the outcome should be, the position of Gibraltar would be jeopardized.

Record Burning Disturbs House

What records of the provincial government can be regarded as valuable and who shall have the right to destroy them?

This question puzzled the Legislature last night for the second time this session and after a short debate a bill introduced by Attorney-General Sloan on the subject was stood over for further amendment.

Mr. Sloan proposed that the printing committee of the House should decide, but Opposition members insisted that nothing of the last ten years should be destroyed. Finally Mr. Sloan accepted this and undertook to bring in a new amendment.

Hot Debate on Loan Measure

Premier Announces Land Settlement Plan for South Okanagan as $5,000,000 Bill Goes Through House; no Wild Money Schemes for B.C. He Pledges

Authority to borrow $5,000,000 for public works and other undertakings was given the provincial government by the B.C. Legislature last night, and among the expenditures proposed, Premier Pattullo announced, is a land settlement scheme involving several hundred acres in the South Okanagan district.

The new loan powers are in addition to $10,987,000 of unused borrowing authorities now standing on the statutes. Some of these are for specific purposes and could not be diverted to a general programme, but the remainder of the government's desire for additional powers, the Premier said: "We don't know just how much we'll need."

The vote on the loan bill came without division after an hour of the most spirited debate of the session, in which opposition members challenged the Premier how he was going to get the money and he replied with the ringing statement:

"NO WILD SCHEMES"

"Well, you can be sure this government is not going into any wild schemes like Social Credit. It is not going to repudiate any of its debts and we're going right ahead to develop our province within the limits of our authority."

The Premier did not elaborate on the South Okanagan scheme, but after recalling the original irrigation plan in that district after the war, added:

"It is the intention of the government when it gets the money, to take several hundred acres there and place people upon them."

In the course of his statement the Premier assured the house none of the loan money would be spent on the proposed B.C.-Alaska Highway, but added that the government was willing to "co-operate and collaborate" with the Ottawa and Washington governments when they wished such co-operation on the project.

TO GET LOAN IN EAST

Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, in moving second reading of the loan measure, said he and the Premier were going east shortly and hoped to negotiate the loan, in whole or in part at that time.

CHARGES SQUANDERING

Thundering at the government for extravagance, Herbert Anscomb, Independent, Victoria, said he could not realize why it was taking power to borrow more money and squander it. In four years the administration had spent $112,000,000, exclusive of unemployment costs, and now wanted another $5,000,000.

The bill provides for retirement of the bonds in fifty years and no asset could be set up to last that long, he said. He criticized the Finance Minister for putting a 5 per cent maximum on the interest when he is now trying to refund his whole debt at 3 per cent.

While government benches remained unmoved in face of the attack, Hugh Savage, Independent, said the Liberals reminded him of the "silent service" when it came to explaining their actions to the House.

R. B. Swales, Social Constructive, Delta, said the bill would mean the government had added $21,000,000 to the debt of the province, "putting us further in hock." The real assets against the debt were the people, not the physical resources, and many of these people, farmers, fishermen and unemployed youth were in a sorry state, he claimed.

PREMIER'S REPLY

At this juncture the Premier rose to reply.

The outstanding loan powers, he said, were not all of a general nature and in desiring more he could not say how much would be needed.

"Why don't you tax your natural assets, then?" said E. E. Winch.

To this the Premier replied by saying the government did not intend to tax industry beyond its capacity to pay. He showed how the dual provincial and Dominion income taxes worked a hardship.

He agreed with Mr. Swales that the farmers and youth needed assistance.

PEOPLE BIGGEST ASSET

"That's just what we want to do—provide them with work. The biggest asset of the province is the people who live in it. It is the ingenuity of our people to develop our resources. When you know the condition of our roads, the flood damage we've had, the buildings that need reconditioning and the demands we have for more services can you question we need this money?"

Mr. Pattullo then referred to authority in the loan bill for expenditures under the Soldiers' Land Act, reviewing what had been done in this connection after the war, finishing with his announcement on the South Okanagan plans.

Jogged by Mr. Bruhn about where he would get the money, the Premier retorted warmly:

"If we can't borrow the money we certainly won't print any scrip. And we've got along without raising any taxes."

POOLEY'S TRIBUTE

As the Premier sat down amidst a round of table thumping, R. H. Pooley, K.C., Unionist, Esquimalt jumped up to exclaim:

"I'm glad the little cock robin isn't dead yet."

Ernest Bakewell, Social Constructive, Mackenzie, concluded the debate with a declaration in favor of the government's policy although not agreeing with terms of the bill.

British Columbia, he said, had plenty of assets, including $95,500,000 in forests provincially controlled, to meet its debts.

"In the United States President Roosevelt had the courage to go out and borrow money to put his people on a better footing and it seems to have met with their approval. The United States will cash in on the CCC camps, the TVA and other projects and I see no reason why British Columbia can't cash in the same way on its human assets."

Fifteen K.C.'s To Be Chosen

Instead of the customary ten, Attorney-General Gordon Sloan will be able to appoint fifteen King's Counsel in British Columbia next year, as the result of an amendment to the King's Counsel Act introduced in the Legislature yesterday.

It is usual for an Attorney-General to appoint his list of King's Counsel the final year of his term. The new act provides for the appointment of fifteen every four years. Expansion of the number of the change was that there has been an increase in the number of members at the bar in the province.

House Rejects Marriage Plan

Winch Plan for Medical Examinations is Defeated

For the second time, in the Legislature yesterday, Ernest Winch, C.C.F., Burnaby, failed in an attempt to make medical examinations necessary for intending brides and bridegrooms in British Columbia.

On a thirty-one to eight vote, the House turned down his proposed bill on second reading. Mrs. Paul Smith, Liberal, Burnaby, voted with Mr. Winch and the other C.C.F. and Social Constructive members and Thomas Uphill, Labor, Fernie, in favor of the plan. All other Liberals supported Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, who said the measure was premature.

Arguing for his bill, Mr. Winch said it would not necessarily prevent marriage because those people who would not accept it would enter into illegal unions. The examinations, he said, were aimed mainly at tuberculosis and venereal disease, by which many people were contaminated in marriage.

He asserted that twenty-three of the United States had such regulations in one form or another and they were gaining converts steadily. In some places women's organizations had demanded it because they felt that women were more often the victims of contamination.

Herbert Anscomb, Independent, Victoria, opposed it, saying there were no compulsory features in the bill and it was not worth the paper it was written on. Even if it were, this would not stop people hopping over the line to Bellingham and getting married.

Dr. Weir said the matter had been given serious study by provincial health officers. Some of the objections raised were that it would be difficult of enforcement, that some practitioners were not competent to test for the diseases mentioned, recipients of examinations might be lulled into a false sense of security, and others, fearing cost, would go elsewhere to be married.

Dr. Weir said he thought more could be accomplished on this line by improving preventive education services and general health provisions. Harold Winch, C.C.F., Vancouver East, argued that even if the government was not ready to enforce the scheme, conditions certainly justified it.

LESLIE SCOTT IS RE-ELECTED

Returned as President of the Seventh Battalion Association

Veterans of the local Seventh Battalion Association rubbed shoulders again yesterday evening and recalled once again that memorable day when they swarmed over the top to carry out the first trench raid.

The veterans met at their annual smoker and meeting held in the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion.

Leslie G. Scott, genial president, was re-elected to carry on for another term, while William Merston, was returned as vice-president, and David Holmes made secretary-treasurer. The executive committee was re-elected and includes Louis Glazen, A. B. Morkill, F. Dawson and J. H. McIlwaine. The retiring secretary-treasurer, Frank Blakemore, was tendered a vote of thanks after having served the association for three years.

It was recalled at the meeting that the initial trench raid by the battalion won the commendation of Earl French, commander in chief of the British army, for inaugurating a new form of attack. The prisoners of war taken in that raid by the battalion were allowed to write postcards to let their relatives know as to their safety and whereabouts, which were dropped over on the German side, it was pointed out.

It was decided to hold the annual dinner as usual, the date to be set by the executive committee. Humorous events that took place during the Vimy Pilgrimage of the Canadian Legion, were told by Harry T. Thompson, who was a member of the crusade. Colonel Ross Napier contributed two of his own monologues, "The Old Pump" and "The Last Scrap." James McVie and Henry Jarvis contributed songs, while Aubrey H. C. Jones took charge of the community singing.

PROTECTION ON SILICOSIS

Pearson Brings Down Bill to Aid Miners Suffering Disease

Legislation under which metallic miners suffering from silicosis, or miners' tuberculosis, will be granted compensation from the Workmen's Compensation Board was introduced last night in the B.C. Legislature by Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor.

Silicosis is described as "a fibrotic condition of the lungs caused by dust containing silica and evidenced by specific X-ray appearances accompanied by substantially lessened capacity for work."

The compensation board is empowered to set up a special silicosis fund and to pay out benefits to workmen suffering from the disease, providing their cases meet certain conditions.

Benefits by the legislation commence as from January 1 of this year. Coinciding with the new measure was an amendment to the Metalliferous Mines Regulation Act providing that workmen in operations where silicosis might occur must be examined once a year at their employers' expense. If he is not examined he will not be permitted to work underground in dry-crushing operations for more than two months a year.

Relief On Taxes In Vancouver

Relief measures for home-owners in Vancouver who are unable to pay their taxes received the approval of the private bills committee of the B.C. Legislature last night ready for presentation to the House.

The City Council, in one measure will be empowered to withhold property from tax sale if the owner is the resident and can prove reasonable prospects of paying his taxes next year.

Tax arrears will be consolidated on a ten-year plan by another bill. A further measure permits homeowners to work out their tax arrears.

BRIDGE BONDS SOLD AT PAR

Bonds sold by the provincial government to finance construction of the new Fraser River bridge bear interest at 3 1/2 per cent on a three-year basis and were sold at par. Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, replied to questions in the Legislature. On July 8, 1935 an issue of $1,000,000 was sold and on July 15 this year a further $1,000,000. In each case the treasury received the full amount net.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today

NOVEMBER 18, 1911 (From The Times Files)

During the present week the detective force of the city of Victoria has been relieved of the congestion from which it has suffered so long and so patiently in the "two-by-four" barracks room on the north side of the City Hall block, by taking up its new quarters in the market block on the west of the fire station, which have been put in shape at an expenditure of something like $700.

In a steady advance in the up-building of Victoria the month of November has not been behind the first ten months of the year. Statistics in the building inspector's office show an increase over the same period last year of $110,540.

Gordon Drysdale, a well-known Vancouver business man, is in the city. He arrived at the Empress Hotel last evening. Mr. and Mrs. E. Guy Warner left yesterday for Montreal, whence they will sail for Liverpool on the Laurentine. Mrs. A. G. Dunlap is staying at the Dominion Hotel while calling on her Victoria friends.

Commenting on a delightful vacation spent in Victoria this summer, Emmi Rendtorff, of Carmel, Cal., writes "we were impressed with the simple dignity of the town, its quiet and orderliness, its freedom from pretence and bluster. If it is true that every town has its own distinct character, I should like to say that Victoria has police. We were particularly impressed with the absence of something that had annoyed us in some of the towns we saw on our trip. I mean the undue emphasis laid on the sale of liquor."

A missionary meeting will be held at Cridge Memorial Hall next Sunday, at 3 o'clock at which Rev. G. W. Gibb, general director of the China Inland Mission will bring latest news of present conditions in China. He will preach in the evening at Emmanuel Baptist Church.

For Bad Winter Coughs, Mix This Remedy at Home

Quick Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This well known recipe is used by many thousands of housewives, because they have found that it gives them a much more dependable remedy for distressing winter coughs. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any drugist, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its effect on throat membranes. Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of cough remedy, unusually quick-acting and dependable, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving quick, satisfying relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

Mrs. Fred Longstaff of 22 Lane St., Guelph, Ont., said: "I was troubled terribly with headaches, heartburn and indigestion. Pains on my back were so severe it would be impossible for me to turn in bed. Then a friend I learned of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I know I would never have been able to keep up if I had not taken it."

Buy your drugist now! New size, tablets 50 cts. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35.

HAVE YOU Stomach Upsets?

IMPROVE your stomach and build up the blood with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The entire system feels the beneficial effect. Your appetite increases and you feel stronger.

Bridgehead provided Vancouver, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—The Vancouver City Council has given its consent to the granting of a lease by the Minister of the Interior at Ottawa of 3.76 acres in Stanley Park for the southern bridgehead of the $6,000,000 First Narrows Bridge. The bridgehead approach site is 200 feet wide instead of 150 feet as provided in the original agreement between the city and the First Narrows Bridge Company.

Boxing Ticket Tax Reduced

Becomes Flat 10 per cent in New B.C. Measure

Boxing and wrestling fans of British Columbia got good news in an amendment to the Amusements Tax Act introduced in the Legislature yesterday afternoon by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance.

Instead of paying ten cents tax on admission tickets up to $1 and twenty-five cents on tickets over that amount, they will henceforth pay a flat 10 per cent of the admission charge. Thus on a fifty-cent admission ticket the tax will be five cents; on a $1.50 ticket fifteen cents. The change in tax applies only on admissions to boxing and wrestling exhibitions.

Mr. Hart also brought down yesterday minor amendments to the Succession Duty Act and the Official Guardians Act. The first was a change to do with valuation of estates and the second provides that trust monies may be invested in Dominion or provincial securities with the provision that any amounts not produced by these investments to realize the full sums due shall be paid out of consolidated revenue.

British M.P. Sees "Censorship"

London, Nov. 18.—Ellen Wilkinson, Socialist member of the House of Commons, yesterday questioned Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, from the floor of the House about deletions recently from United States magazines reaching Britain.

Miss Wilkinson said: "Can the president say why, in the case of two American magazines of high repute which have been imported into this country, during the last few weeks at least two and sometimes three pages have been torn out? Can he say what is this thing which the British public is not allowed to see?"

Mr. Runciman replied: "My department has nothing to do with that."

HALF-ACRE in EDEN

By Robert Edward Dickson

(Copyright, 1936)

Refusing to let others know how deeply she has been hurt, Marcia goes to the dramatic club try-outs and is given a leading part in a new play. Afterward, with others, she steps at a restaurant. There is a holiday and Marcia loses a ring that was her mother's.

From her friend HELEN WADDELL, Marcia learns that Frank is in Chicago, decides to go there to persuade him to return and face his financial obligations. She takes the first plane.

In Chicago Marcia telephones Helen's address, JOHN WADDELL, and arranges to meet him next morning. In the hotel restaurant a stranger offers a slight service. Later she hears him addressed as "BRUCE McDOUGALL." As Marcia is leaving he gives her a small sketch of himself, labeled "Portrait of an Unknown Lady."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

At 5 o'clock in the morning, while Marcia, a few hours after her return to the hotel, was sleeping, Frank Kendrick, a dozen blocks away, packed a suitcase in a dingy room. His meeting with John Waddell, on the day before yesterday, had signaled imperatively for further flight. He had considered it ever since, remaining away from the restaurant. John, of course, had recognized him, had not been fooled by his denial. Whether he knew the reason for Frank's absence from Bobba Neck, he would, as a casual friend and as a relative of closer friends of Frank, most certainly inquire. The replies to his inquiries could hardly fail to bring him again, or to bring someone else, to the restaurant. On the heels of his inquiries, indeed, might come the law.

In the darkness of the winter morning, in the chill of the cheap room, Frank Kendrick felt the coward's comfort of a wash of self pity over the score of his self respect. A few weeks ago he had been popular, successful. Popular because of his success; successful through his popularity. Success had been so easy, he had always thought it must be because he was of stuff superior to other men. Only recently had the thought occurred to him that his marketing of conservative investments in a town of moneyed people had not been a difficult task. The Kendrick had been favorably known in that neighborhood for generations; the last of their line had been borne smoothly on an accumulation of esteem. And popularity had been so easy; only recently had it occurred to him that his prestige and reputation might not have survived an earlier test. "Weight and sound wanting," with he had never been weighed before. The mature weight of a Kendrick, in Bobba Neck, was chalked up at birth, and was hardly ever questioned again. He had brought his own weight into question. But if it had not been for others—

There, of course, was the real fault. He had been led into strange, deep waters, and abandoned to struggle alone. He would never have foundered had he followed his own course. Now Frank Kendrick demanded of himself, could he be blamed for the actions of other people?

He had always sold safe investments—the best municipalities and other bonds of the same character. One might say that it had involved hardly more than sitting at a desk and accepting funds of friends and acquaintances, and sending the orders to New York for the stuff they wanted. But he had always given good investment advice—"Four per cent without a gamble, instead of 6 per cent with a chance."

Unfortunately, his New York connections had introduced him to the possibility of profits above his own recommendations. Before converting a considerable sum of money into the 4 per cent ordered by his customers, he had been attracted by a scheduled pool operation in a certain industrial share. Appalled when his customers' money disappeared in violation of the schedule, he had thrown his own conservative investments into the operation, in an effort to rebuild, and had witnessed their quick demise. Well Street was not aware of the ripple it made, but for Frank Kendrick, a tidal wave had wiped out all that made up his life.

He missed Marcia; they had been friends for so long. Strange, he thought of her as his old friend, not as the girl he had been going to marry. Funny how they had sort of slid into that engagement! He wondered—briefly—whether this whole affair meant more to Marcia than it did to him; after all, she was a girl and—had he to acknowledge it—he had let her to face alone the friends who would be raising eyebrows over the punctured romance.

Britain To Raise Big Loan Soon

Issue of £100,000,000 for Redemption and to Refund Floating Debt

Canadian Press

London, Nov. 18.—The government, according to an announcement made yesterday, will issue immediately a medium-term loan of £100,000,000 in the form of 2½ per cent funding loan maturing 1952-1957.

The issue price was announced at 98½, with the yield, allowing for redemption at the latest date, June 15, 1957, to be £2 16s 11d per £100.

Proceeds of the flotation will be used partly to finance the redemption of about £35,000,000 in bonds maturing Feb. 1 next and partly to fund the floating debt.

"PEOPLE THINK I HAVE A MAID"

"THAT'S because my hands are so nice. But they'd be chapped if I didn't use Hinds Honey & Almond Cream."

Hard-worked hands become soft and tender. Hinds soothes and softens. Quicker-acting, it soaks skin into lasting smoothness. Hinds is rich, full-bodied. You can see it isn't watery. Every creamy drop "makes up" for the dryness brought on by washing, scrubbing, dusting and polishing.

Alaska Takes To "Permanents"

Associated Press

Bethel, Alaska, Nov. 18.—Alice Foregren, twenty-two, who came from Bismarck, N.D., this fall to beautify the few white and many native women of the Kuskokwim River country, said today she hopes Bethel's permanent wave popularity will be permanent. So far, she has but one male native patron, but white "sourdoughs" kept her busy the first week administering the first professional shaves and haircuts many had had in years. Her first five shaves brought her $5 per face.

Victoria Girl Married In England

Miss Jean Gillespie Is Bride Of Capt. Geo. Gaisford

A marriage of much interest throughout Vancouver Island took place on October 21 at St. George's Church, Camberley, Surrey, England, between Jean, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Gillespie, "The Leasowes," Fairfield Road, Victoria, B.C., and Capt. George Gaisford of the Royal Tank Corps, only son of the late Capt. J. Gaisford, formerly of Crofton, V.I., and Mrs. Gaisford-England.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. John Todd of Montreal, wore a smart brown velvet suit with a gold lame blouse, a small brown hat and circular veil, and carried a brown velvet muff on which was posed a bouquet of yellow roses.

A number of immediate relatives of the bride and groom attended the service, after which a largely attended reception was held at the Alderhol Club. Mrs. T. P. Gillespie, who is a great-aunt of the bride, acted as hostess.

The marriage climaxed the "love derby" the two have staged for two years, featured by frantic races across the continent, with Barrymore the pursued and his new bride the pursuer.

Virile Leaders Needed In Church

Rev. Richmond Craig Addresses Metropolitan W.M.S.

"We must face the fact that the church is collapsing. We have fewer missionaries and raise less money than before the union. We need great men today. Another John Wesley, perhaps. There is a lack of virile, manly leadership."

Rev. J. Richmond Craig, D.D., thus warned the members of the Metropolitan W.M.S. at their meeting on Monday afternoon. He challenged the women to "Get together, study the problem of educating yourselves. Learn that the Gospel of Jesus is worth while. A gospel for all, not for one privileged class. Infuse yourselves with what you believe. Know your missionaries, know your people. Begin to live your religion."

Dr. Craig declared that the church had missed its opportunity. But it was not the fault of the organization, which were running smoothly and efficiently. The thing that needed change was the atmosphere, the inner lives of the members of the church.

REPORTS GIVEN

In the absence of the president, the chair was taken by Mrs. W. L. Smith. After the opening exercises, reports were read by Miss F. Brink, Mrs. W. Oard and Mrs. J. T. Taylor. Mrs. W. E. Harper reported 102 calls made during the month; on the sick, fifty-six; on strangers, forty-six. Mrs. E. Akhurst gave a talk on Christian stewardship. ### Would Substitute Scot For Signals

Substitution of a giant Scot in Highland police garb, turning a signal reading "Proceed with caution" into a place of the stop-and-go signals in Victoria's business section, is suggested by a recent visitor from Riverside, Calif., to the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

"My stay in and about marvelous

Victoria was 100 per cent," commented the Riverside man in his letter to the bureau.
"Keep modern ideas out of that dreamland," he said, in advising Victorians to elect only those who before election pledged their efforts to preserving this "little London on the Pacific."
"Make the B.C. government hand you back the gas tax to make better roads, and pass a law to preserve the trees that border your highways," was another of his comments.

English Football Cup Opening Round Draw Announced

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

DOUG PEDEN is speeding home. Victoria's latest contribution to the six-day bike racing game boarded a train at the finish of the grind in Chicago Saturday night and should reach this city some time this week. This was the information contained in an air mail letter to the writer. In his note Doug states the race in Chicago was a pretty tough one. The last three hours were among the hardest ever witnessed on a Windy City track according to the former amateur basketball and rugby star.

Doug has decided not to ride in too many races his first year in the sport. He states he received a splendid offer to ride at New York, but turned it down owing to the reason he figures it would be too much of a strain. Apparently he received the same advice from a number of the leading riders. The Chicago grind was Peden's third since he turned pro. He rode his first event in London, returned to Canada for the Montreal race and then hopped to Chicago for this third whirl around the pine board saucer. Doug will likely spend Christmas at home with his folks and return to bike riding next spring. Doug makes no mention of Torchy, so we guess the big red-head will compete in the forthcoming New York six-day.

Billy Buxton, Victoria's southerly featherweight, is certainly going up in a big way with the fight fans and promoters of Seattle. Local fans saw Buxton in action here a few days ago when the little fellow put away a Seattle opponent in quick order.

In a recent issue of The Seattle Times the following was carried:

"Sterner competition lies ahead for the northwest's latest punching sensation, Al Hostak of Georgetown and Billy Buxton of Victoria.

"Hostak was paired with Jack Hibbard last Tuesday, but spilled Al Nealey, a substitute from Klamath Falls, with the first punch he tossed. Hibbard ran out on the match, as he did here before.

"Buxton probably will be used in a semi-final on the next Seattle show, after kayaking four opponents in succession since resting a broken bone in his left hand last summer.

In addition a picture of Buxton carried the word "Dynamite" across the top.

Billy's older brother, Sonny, goes into action tonight at the Tillicum gym, when he engages in a ten-round bout with Danny Pahl, Alberta glove thrower. The bout has been advertised as being for the Canadian heavyweight championship. According to Ted Moore, under whose direction Sonny is now fighting, the local heavyweight must win over Pahl to remain in his stable. "If Buxton cannot whip Pahl he will not get very far in the heavyweight ranks," Moore said.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

TOWN MISNOMER

Untill 1888, the town of Wichita Falls, Texas, had a five-foot water-fall near the present site of the Burkburnett road bridge. It was destroyed when a nearby dam washed out, filling in the river bed beneath the diminutive "falls."

According to a fairly authoritative version of the naming of the town, many years ago a Comanche Indian Squaw was delegated to test the depth of the river now known as Big Wichita River. The woman waded out to its greatest depth and, finding it came up to her waist, expressed "waist deep" in the Comanche tongue by shouting "We-chee-taw."

The river was so named and later the town.

MERCHANTS TO MEET SAANICH

Hoyle-Brown and Mercantiles Will Battle in Main Hoop Tussle Tonight

Rival contenders for men's senior B honors, West Saanich Mercantiles and Hoyle-Brown, will clash this evening in the feature attraction on the Victoria and District Basketball League's three-game card at the High School gym. The show will open at 7.30 o'clock.

The opening tussle will bring together Hudson's Bay and Canadian Scottish, in a men's senior C match. Kingham-Gillespie, last season's coast finalists, will take the floor against the Sons of Canada, in the middle slot on the programme.

UP-ISLAND MATCHES
A pair of matches played in Duncan on Monday evening resulted in the Nanaimo Seniors taking the measure of the Duncan Seniors, 17 to 16, after a close, hectic battle in a Winter Cup skirmish, and the Duncan B.P.O.E. defeating Chemainus locals 22 to 13 in a Wenger Cup tussle.

THREE FORMER CHAMPS LOSE

Sarazen, Armour and Runyan Eliminated from U.S. Pro Golf Tourney

Associated Press

Pinehurst, N.C., Nov. 18.—Three former titleholders—Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour and Paul Runyan—were put out today in the first round of the United States professional golfers' championship. Sarazen, losing to Jack Patron, one up; Armour to Mort Dutz, 4 and 3, and Runyan to Clarence Doser, 2 and 1.

Pinehurst, N.C., Nov. 18.—Fay Coleman, Culver City, who was one of the Pacific Coast's ranking amateurs five years ago, won the qualifying medal of the Professional Golfers' Association tournament yesterday with a thirty-six-hole aggregate of 143, one under par for the distance, as Walter Hagen, five times former titleholder, failed to qualify for the first time in the championship proper.

Hagen, last year's medalist at Oklahoma City, missed the boat by one stroke. The qualifying limit was 156 and "The Hag" had rounds of 77 and 80.

But Hagen had plenty of headline company on the sideline. Les Diegel, of Philadelphia, also took 187 in the two-day test, as did Sam Parks of Pittsburgh, surprise winner of the 1935 United States open championship; Phil Perkins of Cleveland, former British amateur king, and Joe Turnesa.

The triumvirate of champions, Johnny Revolta of Chicago, the defending titleholder, Tony Mahero of Greenboro, N.C., the United States open king, and Gene Sarazen of Brooklyne Centre, Conn., three times former P.G.A. titlist and winner of the Australian open crown two months ago, were two strokes back of the front-running Coleman with 145.

Other qualifiers included: Neil Christian, Yakima, 74-73-147. Walter Pursey, Seattle, 81-70-151. Al Zimmerman, Portland, Oregon, 76-76-152.

BASEBALL FIGURE DIES

New York, Nov. 18.—Harry M. De Mott, sixty-eight, vice-president of the Brooklyn Dodgers Baseball Club, died yesterday. He retired two years ago after a career of half a century as a banker.

WINNIEG FIGHTER BEATEN

Glasgow, Nov. 18.—Jake Kilrain, British middleweight, outpointed Paul Schaeffer of Winnipeg in a twelve-round bout here yesterday evening.

Second Half Offensive Gives International Soccer Leaders Verdict in Brilliant Display at Stoke

Canadian Press

Stoke, Eng., Nov. 18.—A two-goal second-half assault enabled England to defeat Ireland 3 to 1 in their international soccer battle here today before 40,000 spectators. The score was deadlocked 1 to 1 going into the final forty-five minutes.

The game, played in ideal football conditions, was brilliant throughout with forwards combining to give both defences considerable trouble. England clinched a three-man attack to score first when Carter of Sunderland headed the ball past Breen. Davis drew the scores level with a terrific close-range shot that completely baffled Holdercroft in the English nets.

Arsenal's great forward, Bastin, accounted for England's second goal and again a three-man attack "clicked" when Worral shot in the final corner following a movement with Johnson and Steele, both of Stoke City.

Today's game was the fifty-first between the two countries since the competition started, England winning forty, Ireland four, and seven ending in draws.

TEAMS CHANGED

England's interleague team that defeated Scottish league representatives 2 to 0 October 21 was revamped for today's game with four changes being made—all on the forward line. Ireland also substituted four forwards from the team that lost to Scotland in its initial international contest.

The teams:
England—Goal, Holdercroft (Preston North End); backs, Male (Arsenal), Catlin (Sheff Wednesd); half-backs, Britton, Gee (Everton), Keen (Derby County); forwards, Worral (Portsmouth), Carter (Sunderland), Steel (Stoke City), Bastin (Arsenal), Johnson (Stoke City).

FIRST HALF

Ireland won the toss and in the opening minutes Johnson, one of Stoke City's contributions to the English side, thrilled the capacity crowd with a fast ground shot that was stopped on the Irish goal-line. The Irishmen retained with a dangerous thrust, Davis shooting wide of the nets.

The Irish forwards continued to press hard and they nearly connected, but Male backed to the goal mouth to save on the line with Holdercroft out of position. The English defence was in difficulties, the Irishmen playing a purely offensive game.

England counted first, however, with a sparkling three-man combination. Britton flicked a pass to Worral on the right wing, the Portsmouth star sending a neat centre to Carter who headed the ball into the net. Davies equalized twelve minutes later with a terrific drive from close range to end first-half scoring.

SECOND HALF

England started the final period with a great offensive display, the forwards showing more methodical play than the Irish line. Worral booted a long pass to Johnson, but Breen anticipated the play and ran twenty yards from goal to clear. On the next raid the Irish goalkeeper dived full length to save a fast ground shot from Carter.

Ireland rallied and Davis missed his second goal by inches when his powerful shot grazed the posts. The Irishmen staged spasmodic raids, but they were successfully beaten off, and in the final twenty minutes play centred mainly in Irish territory.

On the seventeenth minute Bastin gave England the lead and five minutes later Worral, prominent throughout with his great play, scored. Johnson and Steel had a part in the final goal.

New Yorkers in Hockey Triumph

Lynn Patrick Helps Rangers Rookies Whip Bruins 6 to 1, While Sweeney Schirner Sparks Amerks to 5 to 2 Victory Over Canadiens

Americans 5, Canadiens 2.
Rangers 6, Bruins 1.

Several National Hockey League clubs today were resolved to stop the rampaging New York Americans—but first of all they have to figure out some way to stop Sweeney Schirner's style. The snipster from Alberta's foothills, who led the scorers last season, is running wild again.

When there was all the wrangling over who really owned Amerks, the average dopester figured they would need average luck to hang to their third-place position at the last season. Now the problem is if any club in the Canadian section is good enough to shake them from the lead.

Red Dutton's boys removed any serious doubts about that before a home crowd here last night as they hammered out a 5 to 2 decision over their closest rivals, Montreal Canadiens. Trailing in the first period and all even as they entered the home stretch, Schirner sparked the star-spangled speedsters to a well-earned win and a four-point advantage in the section standing.

As the Amerks sped on their way, their intra-city rivals, Rangers, made it a double killing for Gotham as they marched undaunted into the cave of the Bruins. Action, at times was one-sided as Les Patrick's rejuvenated pack licked Boston 6 to 1, to move into second place in the United States section. Five of the winners' goals were scored by rookies.

After a scoreless first period, Rangers' youngsters went to town, Phil Watson scoring two goals within nine minutes and Neil Colville and Alex Shibley each eliciting for one. Ott Heller drew an assist on one of Watson's goals while Lynn Patrick aided Shibley.

One of the most feared lines in hockey, Schirner, Art Chapman and Lorne Carr, were in gray Gettifer, after the former London, Ont., sharp-shooter circled Rangers' net. Neil Colville added his second marker on a play with Shibley and Patrick scored unassisted before hostilities ceased.

Charlie Sands saved Bruins from a whitewashing, scoring in the third period on a pass from Art Gettifer, after the former London, Ont., sharp-shooter circled Rangers' net. Neil Colville added his second marker on a play with Shibley and Patrick scored unassisted before hostilities ceased.

ALBERTA BOND CUT PROCLAIMED

Edmonton, Nov. 18.—Formal proclamation of the legislation reducing interest on Alberta bonds to an average of 2 1/2 per cent was made today in a special number of the Alberta Gazette.

The act was made retroactive to October 31. Premier Albertart announced the government's intention of proclaiming the act when Alberta defaulted the principal of a $1,250,000 bond issue November 1.

Actually, the proclamation made no difference to interest rates because they were reduced by order-in-council June 1. The act merely gave legal backing to the order which cut the rates from an average of 4.89 per cent to 2 1/2 per cent on all provincial securities.

Views Differ On New Governor

South African Papers Voice Opinions on Choice of Hon. P. Duncan

Canadian Press via Reuter's
Capetown, South Africa, Nov. 18.—The appointment of Hon. Patrick Duncan, South African Minister of Mines, as Governor-General of the Union has failed to find full favor in all sections of South African opinion.

The appointment of Mr. Duncan in succession to the Earl of Clarendon was announced in London on Monday evening. A Scot by birth, he has lived in South Africa since the Boer War and has been continually active in politics.

The Cape Times declared a large section of the country held the view that a "revolting blunder" had been made in departing from the principle of appointing governors-general from overseas. The paper asserted a precedent had been set which "may have the most serious consequences in the not distant future."

The Johannesburg Star said there was a measure of gratification to be found in the idea of having a South African as Governor-General, but added the fact it had been necessary to select a working politician showed how narrow the choice was in any Dominion.

The Cape Argus said the government should not have taken notice of the "outcry raised by the Republican Party."

The Dutch-language paper "Die Burger" welcomed the appointment, declaring "the next objective is abolition of the right of appeal to the Privy Council."

British Duties On Coronation Goods

London, Nov. 18.—British manufacturers of coronation goods will be protected from foreign competition by the imposition of 100 per cent ad valorem duties between December 15 next and July 31, 1937.

The import duties advisory committee, in issuing the order this week, stated the tariff would apply to articles of all kinds suitable for use in connection with the coronation or as souvenirs. These include articles representing the King, any member of the royal family, any royal emblem, any article associated with the coronation or the flag of any country in the British empire and flags resembling any such flag.

Italy-Spain War Gas Discussion

London, Nov. 18.—Foreign Secretary Eden informed the House of Commons yesterday the government had no evidence Italy had sent poison gas to the Spanish insurgents.

Answering a question of Rt. Hon. J. C. Wedgwood, Labor, Mr. Eden said "There is no evidence, as far as I am aware, in that respect."

Questioned by William Gallacher, Communist, as to whether Germany and Italy were shipping arms to the insurgents, the Foreign Secretary said: "The British Government will continue as in the past to submit to the Non-Intervention Committee all information it receives on the subject."

When the explorer Cartier tried Indian tobacco, offered by Indians of the St. Lawrence region, he found it "almost as hot as pepper."

LOOK TO 1937 AS FORD YEAR

R. N. Collison Back From Detroit Preview Showing of New V-8 Models

"We are looking forward to 1937 as a Ford year," said R. N. Collison, sales manager of National Motors Ltd., on his return from a two-week trip to the east in the course of which he attended a convention of 8,000 Ford dealers in Detroit.

The dealers, from all parts of Canada and United States, were invited by Henry Ford and his son, Edsel.

World history since the war has educated the people to the fact that arguments based on "truth and righteousness" are valueless and without effect unless they have the support of arguments of power, said Rev. Dr. Pascoe Goard, Dominion vice-president of the British-Israel World Federation, during an address at the Empire Theatre yesterday evening.

His subject was "World Movements in the Light of Prophecy." The speaker declared the time had come when the world had reached the stage for the withdrawal of world rule from the continental empire, where it had passed in the days of Nebuchadnezzar, and it was to again be invested in the Israel of prophecy of the Celto-Saxon race.

While there were a number of claimants to empire suzerainty only the claim of Israel, based upon the Divine Covenants, would stand.

Dr. Goard drew attention to the importance of the masses. One of the greatest changes in the present day was the shift of the spotlight from the rulers and thrones to the masses, he said. This fact made modern times a wonderful period in history.

MINIMUM WAGE PLAN IN ALBERTA

Edmonton, Nov. 18.—A minimum wage law for men came into effect in Alberta this morning when the Alberta government proclaimed legislation passed last April. It applies to all employees with the exception of farm laborers and domestic servants.

The legislation, proclaimed in a special number of the Alberta Gazette, provides for a board of three members, who after inquiries, will fix wage scales for particular industries and trades. The scales, which may apply to a full industry or any part, to the whole or any section of the province, must be ratified by the provincial government. The rates may be on an hourly daily, weekly or monthly basis.

The code for the wholesale industry establishes an advisory committee of six members and is designed to eliminate, except under justifiable circumstances, the practice of selling from wholesaler to consumer.

Wholesalers must comply with provincial laws regulating hours and wages and must close their doors on Saturday no later than 1 p.m.

Alberta Proclaims Industrial Codes

Business Practices Governing Wholesale Field, Barbers, Photo Finishers and Automotive Trade Are Regulated Under New Orders

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Nov. 18.—Four industrial codes, governing business practices, were proclaimed today in a special number of the Alberta Gazette. They relate to the wholesale industry, barbers, photo finishers and the automotive trade. A fifth code, relating to bakers, applies to the Edmonton district only.

The code for the wholesale industry establishes an advisory committee of six members and is designed to eliminate, except under justifiable circumstances, the practice of selling from wholesaler to consumer.

Wholesalers must comply with provincial laws regulating hours and wages and must close their doors on Saturday no later than 1 p.m.

The provincial archives today were in possession of an interesting article connected with British Columbia's early development—a sword that belonged to Capt. H. R. Luard, who came to his province with the Royal Engineer in 1859, and did a lot of work on the mainland.

His daughter, Miss E. N. Luard of Cheltenham, England, wishing to present the sword to the archives, gave it to Sir Percy Vincent, Lord Mayor of London, and asked him to bring it out on his trip to the Vancouver Jubilee.

Sir Percy deposited it in the Vancouver city vault, where it remained until Mayor G. G. McGeer came here yesterday. Mr. McGeer made the formal presentation, with a suitable speech, to Dr. Kaye Lamb, provincial archivist, who acknowledged it as a treasure for the British Columbia records.

Cecil E. Brown was fined $10 in City Police Court this morning for not keeping a proper record of the hours and rates of his employees. W. C. Moreby, K.C., appeared for Brown and entered a plea of guilty.

As heavy snowfall tied up shipping along the St. Lawrence waterway this morning and gales and zero weather marooned fifty hunters on the north shore of Georgian Bay, according to Canadian Press dispatches, Victoria basked in sunshine. Evidence of the mildness of Victoria's late fall this year was apparent in flourishing chrysanthemums, stray fan palms. Had at least one butterfly. Mrs. A. Cheshworth, 327 Simcoe Street, reported she saw the large brown butterfly posing on her back porch this morning. It fluttered away after a short rest.

After spending three weeks in eastern Canada, T. Clifford Whelan, assistant manager at the Empress Hotel, has returned to Victoria and is back on duty today. He spent most of the time in Montreal, his former home. With Mr. Whelan's return to the city, Thomas I. Rathe, assistant manager, is taking his annual winter vacation. Albert Whyte, chief accountant, who is holidaying in the Kootenay country, is being temporarily relieved by E. H. Roberge, accountant at the Banff Springs Hotel. Mr. L. N. ## PLANS FOR SIX FUNERALS MADE

Canadian Press
Westlock, Alta., Nov. 18.—Post-mortems in connection with the killing of five persons at Tieland, Alta., and the death of their alleged slayer will not be necessary. Coroner L. Kickham decided here today. He said the causes of death were clearly indicated in all cases.

The six bodies were brought to Westlock, about fifty miles north of Edmonton, but the date of the funerals has not been decided. A coroner's jury investigating the deaths brought in a verdict that Karl Schvesta, forty, former Northern Alberta Railway section foreman, had committed suicide after killing five persons in Tieland last week-end.

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 18.—The body of John Bowers, silent screen hero, was washed ashore yesterday and a friend said he had taken his life in the way he had wished—"sailing out into the sunset."

Character Actor At Dickens Club

At the meeting of the Dickens Fellowship on Monday night the members were entertained by Clement May, well-known character actor and authority on Dickens. Mr. May's address dealt chiefly with his recent work in bringing Dickens before the young people of British Columbia.

The first recital of this kind was given recently at the Kitano-High School in Vancouver, where over 1,000 young scholars, in company with Oliver Twist, "shouted for more."

"Where ever I go, and where ever the English language is spoken," said Mr. May, "there I always find a little group of people gathered together to pay homage to the works of that great master Dickens, and to keep his memory green. Just as where ever the Scots go you will find Burns, so you will find Dickens where there are English people."

Arrangements have been made to hold the fellowship's annual Christmas banquet on December 19 in Spencer's dining room and donations will again be collected for the hampers to be distributed at Christmas time. Plans were made to produce a short Dickensian sketch as part of the programme for that evening under the direction of E. F. Chester, with a committee of members consisting of Mrs. M. M. Bailey, Mrs. B. G. Ruidock, Mrs. M. Chapple, Mrs. E. Pearson and the secretary.

H. L. Penham, president, presided at the meeting and welcomed three new members, Miss M. Bird, Mrs. G. E. Stacey and Mrs. M. J. Pessy to the fellowship, the latter a former member of the London branch.

Little Talk Of War In England

While England is driving ahead under her "preparedness for peace" policy with her air force and munition plants working at high pressure, the people are outwardly calm and there is little talk of war, according to J. G. Frost of Chester, Cheshire, England, who is in Victoria today on his initial visit to Canada.

The shipbuilding plants of Britain also are displaying exceptional activity by reason of the increased naval development.

"England does not want war—in fact she is strongly opposed to it as her efforts in the European situation show—but she is determined to be prepared for any eventuality," Mr. Frost said at the Empress Hotel this morning.

Marketing Control In B.C. Defended

Large and Small Growers Tell Inquiry of Increased Profits Under Regula- tions; Lawyers Refuse to Withdraw Attack

A number of small and large growers appeared before the legislative committee investigating potato control marketing this morning and denied allegations of previous witnesses the operations of the Vegetable Marketing Board had resulted in decreased profits from their produce.

The witnesses quoted figures to show how their revenue had increased since the board's appointment. The marketing board's fee of $2, against which much of the antagonism had been launched, was stoutly defended as a reasonable charge, one broker voicing the opinion he could not see how the board's agency in Vancouver made money on this small charge.

Frank G. Hall and Gilbert P. Hogg, counsel for Oriental growers at the B. C. Vegetable Marketing Board inquiry this morning were again asked to retire from the committee room when they declined to withdraw alleged insulting criticism which they made of the board yesterday.

When the inquiry resumed today Mr. Hall and Mr. Hogg reappeared. They were asked if they were prepared to withdraw their statements of yesterday, and when they declined they were again asked by Chairman Norman W. Whittaker to withdraw.

In the meantime, the chairman said their statements could be considered. Mr. Hall politely acknowledged the notification and withdrew quietly. In opening the hearing this morning, Mr. Whittaker reminded the committee that it is instructed to consider specific charges against the marketing board and its agency, and not academic considerations of the desirability of the present scheme of B. C. marketing.

"So far there is not much meat in the evidence submitted," Mr. Whittaker said.

THREATENS WITHDRAWAL
Shortly after the opening Frank Higgins, K.C., representing mainland growers, threatened to withdraw from the proceedings if repeated interruptions of his witnesses by members of the committee and W. T. Straith, counsel for the board, were not discontinued.

The interruptions were directed at E. Yet, Chinese manager of the Mainland Co-operative Growers' Association, whose evidence, the interrupters contended, was not admissible.

Mr. Higgins charged the interruptions were directed at stifling the purpose of the inquiry. If his witnesses were not allowed to proceed, he threatened to walk out.

There followed a brief heated discussion between Mr. Higgins, Mr. Whittaker and Mr. Straith, after which the proceedings continued with Mr. Higgins' witness quoting figures illustrating how producers had received less for their produce since the board's appointment.

Mr. Higgins said he proposed to show there had been an agency manipulation and also to show the reason why there was such a spread between the producer and consumer.

"I also want to show why Vancouver can consume eighty tons a day and the board can only supply forty-two tons," he said.

Mr. Higgins himself took the stand as a landowner who was vitally interested in marketing control. He directed his evidence against the appointment of Snow Limited as the board agency in Vancouver. Before this appointment was made this company had paid $3,000 to the board on May 4, 1935, and $2,500 on July 4, 1935, he claimed.

J. D. McPhee, counsel for the agency, objected strongly to this evidence but testimony objection was overruled.

The producers, Mr. Higgins continued, wanted an examination of the board's books, and the books of other firms whom he alleged were closely linked with board operations. Mr. Higgins said he wanted an independent examination of the books. "All I am trying to do is to help this committee," said Mr. Higgins.

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Straith on the matter of the cheques.

This examination was taken over by Mr. McPhee, who said he had personal knowledge of the transaction. Mr. McPhee produced the $3,000 cheque, which was dated June 4, and not May 4. The cheque, Mr. McPhee said, was in connection with action brought by Mr. Higgins on behalf of Oriental growers against the board and its agency.

"You are coming here and suggesting there is something wrong between the board, the agency and the producers," said Mr. McPhee.

POSITION PURCHASED
"I don't suggest it—I am saying there is something wrong. I am saying that in view of these advances that G. H. Snow & Company should be discontinued as agency of this board, and that it looks as though this position was purchased," Mr. Higgins replied.

Mr. Straith drew attention to Mr. Higgins' serious charges, accusing the agency and the board of bribery. A. H. Peterson, secretary of the board, was called by Mr. Straith in rebuttal.

He said the board was appointed June 1, 1935, but prior to this there was a provisional board, appointed May 10, which appointed G. H. Snow Limited its agency.

When the official appointment was made the agency was again appointed. The board had been in need of finances, and Mr. Snow had volunteered $3,000 as a loan in assisting the board's financing. The loan was paid up by the end of the year "and Mr. Snow did not buy his agency, and I don't care what he did," Mr. Peterson said. In reply to Mr. Peterson, Mr. Peterson said the loan would have had to come from the bank or other source if Mr. Snow had not obliged. Mr. Peterson said the provincial and federal departments of agriculture had refused loans.

Mr. Snow had not charged interest on the loan, Mr. Peterson said. Voicing what he described as the complaint of the consumers, Mrs. Mabel Tomer of Barnston Island, spokeswoman for women's councils and institutes, said the quality of potatoes distributed in Vancouver was generally poor. She was not, however, complaining of potatoes sold by the marketing board.

Edmund Ronayne of Pemberton, said he and other growers in his district had received no benefits from commissions they paid the board. Formerly they had paid a commission of $1 a ton to an agent in Vancouver, and had always received satisfaction. Now, he said, they paid a total of $3, including $2 to the board, and received nothing beneficial from the board regulations.

He also criticized failure of the board to keep its books in proper order in his district. Growers were not given detailed statements of the board's finances as was required under the board's regulations.

Edwin Henry Baker, Bradner nurseryman, told the committee that growers in his district had received better prices by dealing direct with buyers. By marketing through the board it had cost one grower $25.50 for seven tons.

Mr. Baker charged discrimination in the board's having only one agency. This, he charged, created a monopoly for that agency. He also thought the board was too expensive in its operation, noting that in its latest statement there were items of $17,000 for salaries and $5,000 for traveling expenses.

Sam W. Chess of Chess Brothers, sought to vindicate his firm for certain assertions made against it by certain witnesses. He was ruled out by R. H. Carson, acting chairman during the absence of Mr. Whittaker.

Joseph T. Brown gave his opinion that the board was the "saving grace of the province." He was generally satisfied with the board and its operations, and did not believe the charge of $2 for marketing was excessive.

J. Charlton of Ladner was also a supporter of marketing control and quoted figures indicating higher returns for his produce since the board control started.

He did not complain against the board's charges, describing the $2 fee as a very reasonable one.

L. C. Hagan, Saanich, said he spoke for Island Growers who wished to preserve their identity in any recommendations which the committee brought forward after the inquiry.

He hoped the island would be adequately represented on future boards. Mr. Hagan said island growers felt there was something wrong with the board but he thought this investigation would do much to clear up that situation.

Of the Oriental situation he said he thought the Chinese could make money marketing potatoes at $5 a ton because of their cheap living conditions.

Henry Bowes of Surrey said since marketing control was introduced he had benefited to the extent of 24 cents a sack or $4.80 a ton.

John B. Dickie, Vancouver, in charge of the Canadian Fruit Distributors' office in Vancouver, said he had been asked to submit a tender for the agency of the board. He had refused on the grounds that for the work involved he had not considered the fee was sufficient to break even. Secondly his refusal had been based on the fact that agent's work would have meant sacrificing his own business.

He considered $2 a small fee for the increased conditions which the board created for the consumer.

He said "bootleg peddlers" had called at his firm this year with produce for sale. Some were "bootleggers" and others Oriental. These "bootleggers," he said, were running rampant in Vancouver.

Robert Rees, Lulu Island farmer, said he and his associates had never broken up after a session of three days in which they had cleaned up a tremendous agenda at the Parliament Buildings.

W. J. Bonavia, Victoria, was re-elected secretary to the board. A committee consisting of Mr. Smith, Mr. Blackburn and W. Harrison, Pritchard, was appointed to meet with the Minister of Agriculture to revise the constitution of the British Columbia Farmers' Institute.

L. P. Hornby of Delta said he shipped seventy-eight tons this year which had netted him $1,320. This was better than he had done for years.

He suggested the board should undertake a quota which it would market for any individual grower in order that the potato market would not become overcrowded and subjected to over-production.

Mrs. Mabel Tomer did not concur with any inferences that the marketing board was not beneficial to small growers. She had found that small growers had spread "vicious gossip" about the board because they did not understand board statements.

"I could not stay in business if it was not for the marketing board," she said. She added she had always found a spirit of co-operation with the board and any desired information had always been available to her. The board was assuring better value for the consumers' money, she claimed.

Vancouver, Nov. 18.—Denial that members of his force are dissatisfied with conditions at the police station was voiced this morning by Chief Constable W. W. Foster.

"Assertions that the police force is seething with discontent are incorrect," he asserts. "As far as the police federation and I are concerned there is no difference in feeling."

B.C. Pair Make Fast Trip East

Canadian Press
Toronto, Nov. 18.—By air to Buffalo and by train to Toronto, Peter Moore and J. Grauer made what they believe is a record trip from Vancouver to Toronto to attend the Royal Winter Fair here. They left the Grauer farm near Vancouver Monday at 3 p.m. and reached Toronto yesterday evening at 8 p.m. They will take part in the Holstein-Friesian judging.

MAY DISCARD PARK PLAN

Government May Not Proceed With Garibaldi Timber Proposal

A proposal before the Legislature to permit the cutting of timber in Garibaldi Park on the mainland will be dropped by the government, it was understood in Legislative circles this morning.

The measure was introduced by Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, to give the government authority to clear up over-mature and dead timber in the park area and reduce the fire hazard.

Several members took opposition however, to granting such powers to the fact that the beauty of the park might be spoiled. The government, it is understood, has decided not to press the measure.

RETAILERS TO GIVE SUPPORT

Special Meeting Pledges Aid to Move Against Unfair Selling

Retail merchants of Victoria pledged full support to measures designed to eliminate through provincial legislation unfair practices in merchandising in British Columbia, at a special meeting in the Douglas Hotel yesterday evening.

Discussion was confined to measures directly affecting unfair practices and price-cutting in Victoria and Vancouver.

George R. Matthews, provincial secretary of the B.C. Retail Merchants' Association, attacked merchandising methods, such as selling "loss leaders" or merchandise below cost value, a growing practice. He deplored the price-cutting war, which he said would reach a scale in the next few weeks never before seen in British Columbia.

A delegation would go before the Vancouver council to complain of civil servants and civic employees buying their goods wholesale, and of the practice of holding raffish for retail commodities, he said.

"If there are evils in a community, it is the duty of the government to correct them," he said.

The marketing board, Mr. Matthews said, could not function efficiently until representatives of the consumers and retailers were on the board.

Members of the retailers' executives, the cabinet, and the Legislature will meet at dinner this evening at the Empress Hotel, and proposals will be reviewed.

Goldwyn M. Terry presided over yesterday evening's meeting.

Head Of Farm Body Returned

Returning A. B. Smith of Cranbrook as chairman, and electing R. Blackburn, Prince George, as vice-chairman, the ten members of the advisory board to the British Columbia Farmers' Institute this afternoon broke up after a session of three days in which they had cleaned up a tremendous agenda at the Parliament Buildings.

W. J. Bonavia, Victoria, was re-elected secretary to the board. A committee consisting of Mr. Smith, Mr. Blackburn and W. Harrison, Pritchard, was appointed to meet with the Minister of Agriculture to revise the constitution of the British Columbia Farmers' Institute.

Italy Passes "Day Of Shame"

Boycott on Arms Declared Year Ago; Grand Council Meets

Canadian Press
Rome, Nov. 18.—Italy observed a day of "ignominy and iniquity" today, the first anniversary of the imposition of sanctions, while its leaders reviewed the country's relations with the rest of Europe.

To Italians, the "ignominy and iniquity" were earned by the rest of the world when fifty-two members of the League of Nations Assembly, on November 18, 1935, began the attempt to discourage Italian aggression in Ethiopia.

Recent developments in Italy's foreign affairs provided critical questions for the Fascist Grand Council, which was to meet tonight for the first time since the fall after commemoration of the anniversary.

FINGER-PRINT WHOLE NATION

E. W. Neel Would Do This to Stop Orientals Enter- ing Canada

Finger-printing the whole Oriental nation was suggested by E. W. Neel, Vancouver Island representative, as the only way of preventing the illegal entry of Chinese and Japanese into Canada at a meeting of the advisory board to the British Columbia Farmers' Institute in the Parliament Buildings today.

Members of the board spent a good deal of time discussing ways and means of solving the Oriental situation. Finally they agreed upon a general resolution "drawing the attention of the government to the increasing competition of Orientals."

"The question was brought up when C. B. Appleton, West Kootenay representative, introduced a resolution protesting the increase of Chinese farmers in the Creston district.

"Though it cannot be proved, it is well known that Chinese labor is mainly sent labor," Mr. Neel declared. "There is a boss Chinaman who hires out Chinese bidders and just gives them enough to live on."

In this district it was suggested that a minimum wage for Chinese be set, Mr. Neel said. Ottawa, however, would never agree to discriminatory legislation and the farmers would be faced with a minimum wage all around which would not be to their liking.

Under the law, no Orientals could come into the country, but many people believed there was smuggling. The only cure, Mr. Neel felt, was to finger-print the Orientals, because "you can't tell one from another."

"If you finger-print Orientals, Japanese will protest, and Japan has a big navy. So that settles that," the island representative declared. "I know, because I was in charge of finger-printing Orientals in South Africa and Japan soon put a stop to it. The only solution I can see is that we finger-print the whole nation and then they cannot charge discrimination."

Mr. Neel saw the Japanese as a worse menace than the Chinese for Japanese colonized while the Chinaman wanted to go home to die.

W. Harrison, Kamloops representative, was worried about the future. He believed that in sixty years Orientals would predominate in the province.

J. McKinnon, Shuswap-Kanagan representative, said that in the Armstrong district the vegetable business was in complete control of the Chinese. The competition was unfair as their standard of living was so low.

The Jamieson, Peace River representative, said that the Oriental was becoming a national problem. Chinese and Japanese were already spreading across the prairies and in Edmonton the control of the retail vegetable business was in their hands.

Play Historical Roles at Capitol

Cedric Hardwicke and Nova Pilbeam play two of the leading roles in "Nine Days a Queen," the story of Lady Jane Grey, which is now the feature attraction at the Capitol Theatre.

Open Accounts For 26,000,000

Washington, Nov. 18.—The United States government this week is engaged in the most gigantic task of its kind yet undertaken—the job of setting up social security accounts for some 26,000,000 workers.

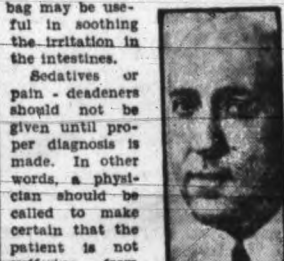

From 45,000 post offices throughout the country, postmen, set out with forms to be delivered to 5,000,000 business establishments. Thus began the unprecedented operation of collecting the basic data for the old-age pension system applying to workers in factories, shops, mines, mills, offices, stores and other business establishments.

The time for the creation of the mountainous files of information is growing short, for the old-age pension taxes—starting at one cent on each dollar of workers' earnings up to $3,000 a year, and one cent for every dollar of the employers' payrolls—will go into effect January 1, 1937.

The taxes will increase gradually until, beginning in 1949, they will be 3 per cent of wages and 3 per cent of payrolls. The money is being collected to finance pensions, ranging from $10 to $85 a month, to which the workers will be entitled on reaching age sixty-five.

The Family Doctor

If a person suffers pain with griping, associated with food poisoning, a hot water bottle or hot packs may be applied to his stomach. If, however, not much pain is present, an ice bag may be useful in soothing the irritation in the intestines.

Dr. M. Fishbein

After an attack of food poisoning, little or no food should be taken for twenty-four hours. The person affected may have cranked ice, which will serve to relieve the irritation of the digestive tract, and also help to take the place of water lost from the body by repeated vomiting. After an attack of food poisoning, the return to solid food must be gradual.

Although there seldom are fatal cases of food poisoning, of the type described, instances do occur in which vomiting and the prostration are so great that death may occur in persons who are not of strong constitution.

The type of food poisoning resulting from infection by germs of the colon, typhoid, or paratyphoid family should not be confused with the much more serious type of food poisoning due to the contamination of food by the bacillus botulinus. Such contamination produces a condition known as botulism, which is much more dangerous to life and health than is contamination by the other germs mentioned.

The botulinus germ is most frequently a contaminant of food that has been improperly canned. The articles connected most commonly with food poisoning of this type are meat and meat products, and foods which are mixed and stored for a considerable time before serving.

Of 1,174 instances of food poisoning

TUDOR LONDON IS PORTRAYED

Capitol Theatre Showing
"Nine Days a Queen," With Excellent Cast

With the current interest in screen plays based on romantic and stirring events in history reaching almost a new high, it is easy to understand why OB Pictures undertook to film "Nine Days a Queen," the story of Lady Jane Grey, now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

The story of the boy king, Edward VI, and his beautiful young cousin, Lady Jane, both of whom were mere pawns in the hands of a group of scheming ministers in Tudor England, is a vivid tale of king makers and court intrigue.

Written and directed for OB by Robert Stevenson, this romantic drama of the sixteenth century England is played by a top-notch cast which includes such stellar names as Cedric Hardwicke, Nova Pilbeam, John Mills, Desmond Tester, and Sybil Thorndike.

Pageant and color, romance and glamor, and forceful drama were all woven into this vivid story of the past. And beautiful costumes, arresting settings, and brilliant acting made Tudor London live again on the screen with an effectiveness and reality which one will not easily forget.

Being shown also is "Master Cinderella," with Jack Haley and Betty Furness.

DOMINION THEATRE
The comedy-romance "Wedding Present," is showing today at the Dominion Theatre with Joan Bennett and Cary Grant in stellar roles.

"Wedding Present" is adapted from the hit Saturday Evening Post story of the same name by Paul Gallico. It was directed by Richard Wallace

COLUMBIA THEATRE
The colored doughboy is given his full due for the part he played in the World War in the official motion picture, "Forgotten Men," now at the Columbia Theatre. Special sequences are devoted to his participation in a struggle where millions of men fought and died in droves to make "Forgotten Men" one of the most stupendous action spectacles ever photographed.

MOON CAUSES PLANT DEATHS

DID THE MOON have something to do with the way the economically important water plant, eel-grass, died out all along the Atlantic coasts of both North America and Europe during the years 1900-1921?

Dr. Neil E. Stevens of the University of Illinois thinks it is a possibility. In a recent issue of Science he sets forth reasons why.

He admits risk in offering such opinions: "One of the surest ways to incur ridicule among scientists is to suggest a relation between some natural phenomenon and the moon. So strong is this feeling of such long standing that it is of record that Galileo's comment on Johann Kepler's suggestion that ocean tides were influenced by the moon, expressed regret that so acute a man should have produced a theory which seemed to re-introduce the occult."

Dr. Stevens' tentative explanation introduces the moon in a slightly different role. He notes that the waxing of the eel-grass occurred at the time of the moon's greatest north declination, that is, when the moon's somewhat wavering path took it farthest to the north of the celestial equator. This northward shift also coincided with at least one other season of wholesale death in the eel-grass beds.

These northward marches of the moon are followed by, and presumably to some extent causally connected with, mass movements of warmer Atlantic water toward the north, called transgressions. These invasions of the colder areas of the ocean by warmer water from the south are frequently followed by disturbances in the biologic balance of the ocean, which sometimes amount to outright disaster to fisheries.

Common Sense Saves Homes

ACCORDING to a newspaper dispatch, a divorce has been prevented and the dove of peace once more induced to brood above a home through a diplomatic arrangement by which the husband agrees to take his wife to all the country club dances in return for permission to keep his hunting dog in the house.

A Solomon! Two Solomons, male and female, come to judgment! For thus is pointed out a practical way to handle with safety the TNT that blows up and wrecks many homes. Of course, those of us who are strong for bigger, better and more lasting weddings have always known that the chief thing that is the matter with marriage is that there is not enough give and take in it, but we haven't known what to do about it. So the solution of the problem comes almost as an answer to prayer.

And, like most great discoveries, it is so simple it is a wonder that some brain-truster hasn't thought of it before. It consists in trading in your grievance against your partner and getting something that you want out of him or her in exchange, instead of just bickering along, year after year, about doing the things you don't want to do and not doing the things you want to do, without ever getting anywhere.

All married people know that it is the petty daily irritations that turn marriage from a grand sweet song into an anvil chorus, and that it is easier to overlook the big faults in their mates than it is leaving the top off of the toothpaste tube, or powder on the dresser, or reading the newspaper at breakfast, or drinking a roll in the coffee.

There are millions of fights between husbands and wives over the things they do that get on each other's nerves where there is one over any of the major sins.

Naturally, men and women, being of opposite sexes, having a different heredity and having been brought up in a different environment, have different habits, tastes and desires, and these are bound to clash when they are bound together in wedlock. The result has been that they have either made their homes a dark and bloody battleground, or else one of them gave in for the sake of harmony and became a miserable human doormat that the other kicked about as he or she pleased.

All of us know couples who have scrapped for forty years over the man's pipe. Other couples who fight over every question from politics to pie. Wives who make a scene every time their husbands go downtown of an evening. Husbands who raise ruckuses when their wives join a bridge club. And so forth and so on.

These uncongenial couples fill the divorce courts, yet there are very few of them who still couldn't get a lot of happiness out of their marriages and save their homes and their children if they would do a little good hard haggling with their mates.

A man, for instance, might agree with his wife that he would never make any more wisecracks about her lipstick and her drugstore complexion and the money she spent at the beauty shop if she would cut out the lectures about the evil effects of tobacco on the human system and not act like an early Christian martyr every time he drops cigarette ashes on the floor.

A husband might trade in two symphony concerts for a day's fishing and his Saturday golf for a movie. The wife might say: "I'll give you your mother and Aunt Emily and the poodle for a two weeks' visit if you will agree to look glad and give my mother a cordial welcome when she comes for a nice long stay."

A husband might agree to put on his dress clothes and stepping out two evenings a week if the wife would agree to stay at home the remainder of the time without telling him how tired she is, and how much trouble the children are, and how long it took to get the dinner. A wife might wangle almost anything she wanted out of a husband if he would sign an agreement not to nag.

Both parties might agree to cut out the topics of conversation on which they disagree and over which they always argue. Oh, there are infinite possibilities in the trade-in system of marriage. Try it.

Uncle Wiggily's Strange Adventure

By HOWARD R. GARIS

All of a sudden, Jingle, who was looking down into the hole with both eyes, for it was now large enough for him to see a thump and a bump and a voice crying: "Ouch!"

"My goodness! What was that?" asked Jingle, and he gave such a jump he almost fell into the hole where, a few seconds before, his father had disappeared. "What was that?"

"What was what?" asked Uncle Wiggily, coming up out of the hole as it does when some one goes down cellar to see if it's time to feed the furnace more coal.

"What was that noise?" asked Jingle, getting ready the half dry part of her handkerchief in case she had to cry more tears.

"Which noise?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "If I am right you heard three noises. You heard a thump and next a bump and then I said 'ouch!' didn't I, Jingle?"

"Yes, Daddy, you did," answered the little rabbit girl, who always told the truth.

"Why ask about one?"

"Well, then," went on Mr. Longears, who at times had a queer sense of humor. "If you heard three noises, which noise do you want me to tell you about, Jingle?"

"Oh--Oh--I guess all three noises, Daddy," Jingle said, after thinking it over.

"All three, if you please," said Uncle Wiggily, like and resigned at the hottest light he could around the edge of the hole top fast and fell in. Yes, I really fell in and I thumped down here on the bottom."

"So that was the thump noise?" asked Jingle.

"That," her father said, "was the thump noise. The bump noise was when I bumped my head. But don't worry. I didn't bump it very hard. This is soft dirt. Now that tells you about two of the noises, Jingle, my dear. The third noise or sound."

"If you please, Daddy," said Jingle, "you don't need to tell me about the third noise. I can guess what it was. You thumped down to the bottom of the hole and then you bumped your head and then you said 'ouch!' because it hurt. Isn't that it, Daddy?"

A SMART CHILD

"That's it, exactly," said Mr. Longears. "You are a smart little rabbit child, Jingle. Well, I'm up again and now I'll begin looking for your ring at the bottom of this hole. For I am really on the bottom."

"Do you see my ring?" asked Jingle anxiously.

"I see it very dark here at the bottom of the hole. He looked up and could see a little sunlight at the top like a ten-cent piece. But it was dark on the bottom. And then, all of a sudden, out of the darkness a voice said:

"What are you doing in my hole?"

"Oh, my goodness!" thought Mr. Longears. "This is going to be an adventure!"

And if the wash rag doesn't go out and play in the mud so the soap has rubbed its face I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the digger.

Indigestion Sufferers Welcome This Tonic

Increases Appetite, Brings New Energy and Health

Indigestion so often goes hand in hand with frayed nerves. In fact, the root of the trouble in such cases is nerves... nerves that finally rebel at under-nourishment. That is why you will find former indigestion sufferers everywhere who have nothing but the highest praise for PHOSFERINE, the great British Tonic.

"For months," writes Mrs. R. Pickles, Leeds, England, "I could not sleep, and had no appetite. I gradually got worse until I was on the verge of collapsing. After the first bottle of PHOSFERINE I felt quite made over again."

PHOSFERINE is concentrated nerve nourishment. As it helps your over-worked, exhausted nerves back to normal, it also helps your stomach to work properly. Digestion becomes normal. Appetite grows greater. You eat better, sleep better, work better, look better. Try this tonic way to put your stomach and nerves right. Get PHOSFERINE from your druggist. 50c, $1.00 (4 times as much). $1.50 (8 times as much). (Adv.) 42

NO INVASION BY JAPANESE

Captain of Training Ships Says Americans and Canadians Unduly Excited

Canadian Press

Tokio, Nov. 18.—The Tokyo Fisheries Institute training ship was back in its home port today after a cruise extending to the Pacific Coast of North America, but its captain, Jinzo Nakagawa, said there was no cause for apprehension in Canada and Alaska over the possibility of Japanese invasion of their fishing waters.

Captain Nakagawa of the 1,300-ton Hakujo Maru said that fishing interests of both western Canada and Alaska seemed to be unduly excited over the danger of Japanese fishermen mining the salmon and halibut catches in their coastal waters. To his knowledge not a single Japanese vessel was engaged in salmon fishing off the Pacific Coast this season.

Eiji Ansu, Foreign Office spokesman, would not comment upon the apprehension aroused along the American Pacific Coast by the cruise of the institute training ship. "We have received no reports on the subject and consequently I cannot make any comment," he said.

According to the semi-official Domei News Agency officials of the agriculture and forestry ministry do not plan to advance the Japanese fishing industry into American waters. At the same time, the agency said, the officials could not understand the attitude of Canadian and American interests that because the salmon run originates in the rivers of those two countries they have any right to object to Japanese catching them once they emerge into the open sea.

How Often Can You Kiss and Make Up?

NEW husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month.

You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up easier before marriage than after. If you're wise and if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

For these questions one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "smiling through."

Mail Delivery Christmas Day

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—Regular mail deliveries on public holidays, including Christmas Day, will be the new policy of the Post Office Department, effective at once, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced yesterday. There will be regular deliveries every day but Sunday in future.

Convenience of the general public and the growing importance to business of quick and immediate delivery of mail matter was the consideration prompting the government in this move, the Prime Minister said. There would be a slight addition to the estimate for this service, but the government felt it justified.

Due consideration will be given employees with respect to hours of work and remuneration, and it was anticipated, Mr. Mackenzie King said, extension of the continuous service given by the post office would mean additional employment.

BEN CHAPPELL IS PROMOTED

Head of C.N.R. in B.C. Will Have Line's Busiest Province to Look After

From drug store clerk in the little town of Montague Bridge, P.E.I., to general superintendent of the Manitoba district, heaviest traffic area in the Canadian National Railways western region, is a considerable jump up the ladder of life. Yet it briefly tells the career of B. T. Chappell, better known throughout the west as "Ben," whose appointment to the new post with headquarters at Winnipeg became known yesterday.

B. T. CHAPPELL

Mr. Chappell is almost as well known in the business life of Victoria as he is in Vancouver. His territory, of course, covered Vancouver Island and he frequently came here in connection with Canadian National interests or to enjoy a brief holiday.

Although railways were nothing new to Mr. Chappell when he came to British Columbia, steamships were, but he successfully operated his company's ships on the coast runs since that time. Once a year he made a trip to northern British Columbia and Alaska and over that part of his company's lines from Prince Rupert to Jasper Park.

Like many another from the Maritimes, Mr. Chappell headed west early in life and in 1895 arrived in Winnipeg to become a clerk in the Northern Pacific freight department. Irish good humor and Scotch thrift could not be confined to an office, however, and he was soon transferred to the operating department in train service. Before six years had passed he had become yardmaster for the aggressive Canadian Northern Railway in Winnipeg, a spectacular rise even in those days of rapid expansion. As when he began his career in the railway, he was transferred to Port Arthur in 1903 to speed up yard operations—and 1908 found him headed west to North Battleford as trainmaster, still keeping the grain moving.

After five years on the prairies he was made superintendent at Saskatoon, still hustling trains over the road. Not quite three years later the Canadian Northern had completed its link with the Pacific Coast and Mr. Chappell was made superintendent at Vancouver only to be recalled to Saskatoon as general superintendent for the Saskatchewan district on January 1, 1919. In his ten years at Saskatoon he was for eight of them director of the city's exhibition board. He is still a member of that body. During that time also he was prominently identified with the Board of Trade as a director at a time when the prairie city was expanding in every direction. The Y.M.C.A. knew him there as the general chairman of its annual drive for funds. It was here, too, he was made "Chief Iron Horse" by the Crows of the Round Plains Reserve and presented with the magnificent feather headdress and beaded buckskin jacket by the exhibition board.

During his seven years in Vancouver Mr. Chappell had become identified with many phases of the life of the city and province. He is a director of the Canadian Pacific Exhibition, the B.C. Forestry Association, honorary vice-president of the B.C. Safety League, honorary life member of the Association of Pacific Coast Port Authorities, former member of the council of the Vancouver Board of Trade, director of the Pacific Coast Terminals at New Westminster and a director of the G.T.P. Dock Company in Seattle. Here, as on the prairies, he took a great interest in the interior fairs. In the past six years he has rarely missed attending the fall exhibitions at Kamloops, Armstrong and Chilliwack and three years ago he opened the Kamloops exhibition to be rewarded with a ten-gallon hat and cowboy silk scarf. A member of the Vancouver Club, the Rotary and Canadian Clubs, he was also a director of the Golden Jubilee committee. In fraternal circles he is a Shriner, member of Glen Temple, Victoria.

Ss. TWEEDBANK NEARING PORT

Freighter Which Lost Captain and Two of Crew Dye in Boston on Friday

Associated Press
New York, Nov. 18.—Favored by less turbulent seas, which took the lives of her captain and two members of her crew, the freighter Tweedbank proceeded toward Boston today with her arrival scheduled for Friday morning. New York agents of the vessel's owners were advised today.

The skipper of the ship, named MacKenzie, lost his life and two men were washed overboard as Atlantic storms buffeted the vessel, radio advices said yesterday. Nearby vessels were asked to "keep sharp lookout" for the men washed overboard.

No further word was received today of the plight of the Sheepshead, 3,000-ton freighter which yesterday asked for help while bound from South American ports to Saint John, N.B.

With a crew of twenty-seven, the Sheepshead apparently was trying to make Bermuda. A message picked up by Mackay radio said she was leaking seriously, 620 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras.

APPLE BUSINESS

New Westminster, Nov. 18.—Almost 400 cars of apples, shipped from Oregon and Washington, have arrived in New Westminster since the movement started twelve days ago.

Unless a settlement should be reached in the United States maritime strike situation, officials were confident the shipments will continue. Added to the normal business of the port, the apple business has resulted in the busiest waterfront New Westminster has ever seen.

GIVEN BIG JOB

Girls Chisel Too Much Says Dean

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 18.—Four hundred delegates to the third annual conference of Vancouver Girls' H-Y Association are wondering whether Dean M. L. Bollett of the University of British Columbia was right when she told them girls did "too much chiseling nowadays."

In her address on "boy and girl dates" Miss Bollett gave two rules for the girl who wants to be socially successful:

"First, friendship should be the basis of all association," she said. "Second, a girl should observe the requirements of chivalry as much as a boy. There's too much chiseling nowadays."

The Victoria Deane Conference met in St. Barnabas Hall on Monday, Nov. 18. Rev. N. E. Smith, rural dean, presiding. Rev. Alan Gardiner opened a discussion on "Christian Instruction in the Day Schools." A resolution was passed endorsing the work of the provincial education committee in this regard. Farewell greetings were extended to the secretary on his approaching departure for England.

Britain rejoicing in prosperity looks forward to a gloriously happy Christmas. But Christmas festivities will begin for you the moment you board a Cunard White Star or Donaldson Atlantic "Christmas Ship"; a wonderful foretaste of the Yuletide happiness you will find among "the folks at home."
